YULE PRESENT

New Entrance To Center Is Open

A new entrance to the Westlake Shopping Center from Alemany Boulevard has opened — just in time for the Christmas shopping season, center merchants noted happily this week.

However, a related project to speed traffic flow at Park Plaza Drive, Alemany and South Mayfair Avenue, has bogged down because of rainy weather and a delay in the shipment of parts for new traffic signals.

Rains Delay New Road To Mary's Help

Heavy rains in the past two weeks have thrown a knockout punch at Daly City's effort to extend Sullivan Avenue to the new Mary's Help Hospital in time for the hospital's dedication December 18.

City Engineer Arthur Reschke said the target date for completion of the extension is now January 1.

He reported that the route has been rough-graded but that the rest of the project remains to be completed.

Installation of conduits by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company delayed road construction work for a while, Reschke said. "But the rains really cut into the proposed target date."

Cost of the extension of Sullivan has been set at about $200,000. The avenue now ends at Eastmoor Avenue.

The hospital is located on a (Please See Page 2, Column 8)

$5.3-MILLION DROP

D.C. Building 'Down' by 50%

Building activity in Daly City is "down" by nearly 50 per cent this year, according to figures released by the Daly City Building Inspector.

As of the end of October, estimated cost of new construction for the year was about $5.4 million. Last year, during the same period, permits were issued for construction estimated to cost about $10.7 million.

Figures for November were not available at press time.

Primary cause for the downtrend in total permits, according to the figures, is that apartment building has taken a sharp cut.

Reason for the cut is that many of the city's builders have suffered losses in the past year due to overbuilding, according to Arthur Reschke, city engineer.

Permits for the construction of new apartments were not issued in either October or September of this year.

Last year, during the same months, seven permits were issued for the construction of 36 apartment units.

Apartment building in the city has slowed to a mere trickle compared to 1962.

Last year, the months of July and August listed figures of $680,000 and $750,000 respectively for apartment construction. This year the figures for the same months are only $168,000 and $225,000.

However, total building permits were up for the month of October compared to 1962.

This year 40 permits were issued in October while last year only 32 were issued.

Lingemann Decries The Rat Reports

There's no denying that the Westlake District of Daly City has rat rats, officials agree, but according to San Mateo County Sanitarian Reint Lingemann, the situation has "been blown out of proportion."

"Really, the wire services have gotten this thing mixed up. They have made it sound as if Daly City has been literally flooded by rats when this is far from the case," said Lingemann yesterday.

The county health official was especially concerned about callers who asked whether it was safe to come to Daly City. "This is ridiculous and shows how far off the information has been on the situation."

He admitted that there is, indeed, a problem that must be handled quickly and efficiently. But he stressed that "there is no 'danger' right now. We have found a few rats, yes, but there is certainly no 'flood' of them as the wire services would have you believe."

The present rat population must "be nipped in the bud," Lingemann said.

There have been at the most, says the county official, 30 complaints about rats. There have been no reports of bites, disease, or any other results of a rat population in a residential area.

While not minimizing the situation, Lingemann reiterated that (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

A CROWDED HEARING

Scenic Plan For Skyline Assailed

By VIRGIL WILSON

A county proposal to preserve a scenic corridor along Skyline Boulevard through restrictive zoning controls ran into serious trouble last week as anticipated.

One of the largest crowds ever to jam into the County Planning Commission hearing room in Redwood City—more than 130 men and women—turned out for the second public hearing on the plan.

Of the 20 persons who spoke, all but two were opposed to the part of the plan that calls for restrictive zoning to assure preservation of open space. There was general agreement that the highway itself should be preserved as a scenic route.

But the idea of upgrading the zoning for miles on either side of the highway was thoroughly blasted by those who would be the most affected—the owners of the land.

After more than two hours of hearing, the commission continued the matter for further discussion at its January 12 meeting.

In the meantime, an interim zoning freeze will expire in January and members of the commission said it may be necessary to ask the Board of Supervisors to extend the freeze until a decision is made on the plan now under consideration.

Most of those who spoke called the plan confiscatory in that it would deprive the owners of land value without adequate compensation.

The Rev. Thomas F. Regan, pastor of Our Lady of the Pillar Catholic Church in Half Moon Bay, labeled the proposal "patently unfair if not downright illegal."

He said the parish owns 200 acres on Skyline which was donated to be sold some day to raise money for a church school. The proposed rezoning, he said, would devalue the land.

Frank Hammig, Redwood City lawyer representing four owners, called the plan "short-sighted and insufficient" and said the 2½-acre zoning proposed for his (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

Dr. Herald Will Guide Bond Group

Dr. Earl Herald, superintendent of the famed Steinhart Aquarium and a resident of the Westlake area of Daly City for the past 18 years, has been named chairman of a citizens' committee that will promote a $3-million bond election in the Jefferson Elementary School District in January.

He is the father of three children who now attend schools in the district.

The citizens' committee's primary function will be to provide information about the bond issue and the reasons why it has been proposed.

Proceeds of the issue will be used to construct an intermediate school on a site south of the St. Francis Square Shopping Center in Daly City.

Need for the school has been termed "critical" by the administration of the school district.

Dr. Herald said no formal committee meetings have taken place yet, and that the committee's job will be mostly that of public relations.

He said he feels strongly that the "taxpayers are going to have to vote yes on the issue or it will cost them more money in the end."

If the bonds are not approved, the district would have to proceed with the school construction anyway, but the district tax rate would rise 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation, officials have pointed out.

Herald criticized this year's county's property reassessment program and said that it caused a hardship on both the schools and the taxpayers — putting the district in the "impossible position of having to ask for more money in spite of higher taxes."

To qualify for state aid in building the new intermediate school, the district must be (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

New Sign For Shop Center Is Rejected

An application for a new sign, advertising the Skyline Plaza Shopping Center in Daly City, was denied last week by the city's Planning Commission.

A permit for the sign, which would be lighted from within and non-flashing, had been sought by the Wonderlite Neon Products Company of San Francisco.

Arthur Reschke, city engineer, recommended denial of the application because:

The existing sign in the shopping center is visible for the entire area.

The proposed sign would be across the street from residential dwellings.

It is the policy of the city not to allow roof signs and the proposed sign would be nine feet above Center buildings.

Burton Ladenshon, representing the Wonderlite Company, stated that the sign would be perpendicular to Southgate Avenue and would not be objectionable to the residents across the street.

Commission member Melvin Taylor, however, noted that with the addition of the sign there would be excessive signing in the shopping center.

In other action, the commission approved:

An application for a use permit by Bill Phillips of San Francisco for a motorcycle sales and service company at 7339 Mission Street.

An application for a use permit by Philip Luzzi of San Francisco for a parking lot on the northeast corner of Castillo Street and Geneva Avenue.

Broadmoor Youngster Fatally Hurt

Mark Torres, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Torres, 767 Thornhill Drive, Broadmoor Village, was killed Sunday when he chased a ball into the street in front of his home and was run over by a car.

The driver, Mrs. Ethel June Stoddard, 40, of 411 Linden Avenue, San Bruno, told Highway Patrolman Fred Girdler she slammed on the brakes when she saw the boy but could not stop in time. She was not cited.

Another boy, Scott Caldwell, 12, of 267 Thornhill, told the officer that he was playing with Mark when the ball rolled into the street.

He shouted a warning, Scott (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Sullivan Ponders Vote Bid

Democrat Mark Sullivan is not yet running for Congress, but he's running against Republican Congressman J. Arthur Younger, he revealed Monday night.

Speaking at a dinner honoring Sullivan and freshman Congressman John Tunney, D-Riverside, Sullivan declared:

"I intend to do what I can to rid this county of the Republican-Younger clique." He lost to Younger in 1962.

He later said he would make an announcement "before the snow melts in the Sierra," and admitted he is now trying to determine what support he might have for a springtime campaign.

Dinner chairman William Swanberg lauded Sullivan as a man of courage and of "an ability to think regarding the problems that would face him as a congressman."

Speaking to some 95 friends and supporters at the $10 and $25 per plate dinner in Millbrae's Thunderbolt Motel, Sullivan said "there are good local reasons, and good national reasons to believe that this Eleventh District (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

CRASH Plan Urged By Pacelli

Daly City has been asked to join a CRASH program for the prevention of accidents between now and New Year's holiday.

CRASH (Community Rebellion to Achieve Safe Highways) is a move to mobilize citizens for the purpose of reducing traffic accidents.

In a proclamation, Daly City Mayor Frank Pacelli has urged all Daly City citizens "to join in this program and to direct every effort in assisting law enforcement personnel and other users of the streets and highways to achieve a significant reduction in the anticipated number of traffic collisions predicted for this holiday season."

Pacelli said that "it appears that a mobilization of substantially all citizens to participate in the program could effect a decrease in the toll taken by traffic collisions." (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

Daly City Fair Aide Is Honored

Former Daly City Mayor Anthony Gaggero, a director of the San Mateo County Fair, has been honored for 25 years of service to the fair industry.

The honor was accorded to Gaggero at the 43rd annual convention of the Western Fairs Association, held in Fresno.

Presentation of service certificates to Gaggero and other fair officials was made by Charles Paul, director of the California Department of Agriculture.

Dates Bowers of Hanford, secretary - manager of the Kings District Fair and president of the association, said the certificates are awarded to only "a handful of dedicated fairmen each year."

Gaggero lives at 8 West Cavour Street in Daly City.

Sullivan heard himself described by Tunney as a man whose "candidacy cannot be denied" if he conducts a campaign similar to his 1964 drive "sometime in the future."

Tunney, at 31 one of the nation's youngest congressmen, held the crowd's attention with his Kennedy-style speech. Although representing a Southern California district, he was reared in New England, and is a close friend of Senator Edward "Ted" Kennedy.

During a brief press conference at an hour-and-a-half get-together before the dinner, and at the dinner itself, he supported the nation's position in Viet Nam, and said he expects the U.S. involvement to become greater.

"We've got to make it clear to Red China that we will not allow exported aggression to knock over undeveloped country after undeveloped country," he said.

Laos and Thailand and Cambodia would soon fall to the Communists if we were to get out of Viet Nam, he said.

PAIR RELENT Two More Agree To Talk in Trial

Two more of the "silent six" agreed to talk Monday.

Attilio Spagnuolo and Charles Tibbats, disenchanted with their sojourn in county jail, promised that they will testify before the County Grand Jury Monday night.

On the basis of their assurances, Superior Judge Louis B. Dematteis ordered their release from jail forthwith.

He had sentenced Spagnuolo, a 34-year-old San Francisco bartender, and Tibbats, a 44-year-old Daly City roofer, and four other men to stay in county jail until they agreed to co-operate with a bookmaking investigation the jury is making.

Raymond S. Nielsen, 33-year-old San Jose meat truck driver, broke the ice last Friday when he agreed to talk and was released from jail. Kenneth J. Zahnd, 51-year-old Colma painter, remains the only one in jail.

Contempt of court warrants had been out for more than a week for the remaining two, John P. Carey and Salvador Prieto, both of San Francisco, but they had not been arrested.

A series of questions the men are to answer at the jury hearing Monday has been specified. All six are scheduled to appear before Judge Dematteis Friday to answer charges that they are in contempt for refusing to answer a second set of questions.

Attorneys for the six men are banking on the State Supreme Court, to which they have appealed, taking jurisdiction of the case. The court meets today. Spagnuolo is represented by Gerald Ragan, Zahnd by Bert Hirschberg and the other four by Carl Shapiro.

The Suspect Is His Cat

A Daly City resident was in the frustrating position today of doubting the motives of one of his most devoted companions.

Charles Nordman, of 464 Skyline Drive reported to police Monday night that during the past month more than 30 gold fish have been taken from a pond in his backyard.

The prime suspect: His cat. The police promised to investigate.

the city is not swarming with rats. "We just don't want them (the rats) to get established here."

Lingemann theorized that the roof rats, uncommon in this county, might have come from the Skyline woods area, although he said "we can't be sure."

Lingemann had an appointment with City Manager Edward Frank yesterday to discuss the problem and means to solve it.

Crowd Protests Skyline Control

clients "cannot stand the pressures of our future society."

He suggested that a narrow strip be set aside for the scenic highway and that the adjoining lands be given 1-acre zoning.

"In 17 years," Haug told the planners, "I have never seen so many owners dissatisfied with a zoning proposal as this one."

Each of the speakers against the plan was given a round of applause by the standing room only crowd.

One property owner, Calvin Dyer, said his property cannot be seen from Skyline and yet it is to be rezoned from 1-acre to 5- and 10-acre lot sizes.

Dyer asserted that the rezoning plan is a "clever way to devalue property so that it can be condemned later" and be publicly acquired at a cheaper price to be held as open space.

Atherton Phleger, representing the 1,500-acre Phleger Estate and the 750-acre Roth Estate, both of which properties extend from Canada Road to Skyline west of Redwood City, challenged the commission to show the relationship between the proposed public acquisition of the two estates and the scenic Skyline plan.

The proposal being considered by the commission advocates eventual public acquisition of the large properties to be held as a scenic "backdrop." Phleger said most of the land cannot be seen from Skyline.

"I want to be certain," Phleger said, "that no zoning is placed on the property which lowers its market value."

If it is to be condemned, he said, the owners will insist on full market value on the basis of the present 1-acre zoning.

When told that the zoning would be a separate phase to follow adoption of a plan, and that no method of financing the acquisition has been proposed, Phleger told the commission: "We've had a cloud placed on this property."

David Salzberg, a Skyline owner, told the planners that the issue of big government versus individual freedom is at stake.

"I don't think I've ever felt so threatened by any national government," Salzberg said, "as I do now by my county government."

John Wickett said he thought private enterprise could accomplish what the plan proposes to do.

"We don't need to have government do everything for us," he declared.

MG-TC Is A Winner In Concours

By BERNICE PALMER
"This is the model that started the sports car craze in this country," said Forrest Camp as he looked fondly at his 1947 MG-TC roadster.

The beautiful little show car, sparkling and polished, had just been rolled out of the garage to the front of his house at 216 Lauren Avenue in Pacifica.

Its beige canvas top was in perfect condition and the avocado green chassis (British racing green), the chrome, and the bright red engine looked like new.

Camp described how 2,475 hours spent over a period of three years went into the restoration of the MG.

"I took apart every nut and bolt and stripped it to the frame," he said. "Then I took the frame apart."

When it was originally built the chassis was out of alignment a quarter of an inch, and the interior leather was completely deteriorated.

The seats, which are not true bucket seats, are now covered in black plastic. Billy, Camp's 11-year-old son, helped him with the restoration.

Even an oil can, which fits in its own snug little compartment by the engine, is a hand-painted replica of the original one that came with the car.

Although the MG was originally built for club racing in England, it has been classed

SPORTS CAR fancier Forrest Camp of Pacifica checks over engine of his prize-winning MG-TC roadster in front of his home. He estimates he's spent 2,475 hours over the past three years in restoring the auto. This model of the MG considered a "modern day classic" by the Sports Car Club of America.

by the Sports Car Club of America as a "Modern Day Classic."

Before it could be entered as a show car, it had to be restored to its original condition. Every bearing and bushing is new, and some of the parts had to be made by hand.

Camp has exhibited the MG in two shows and has won three prizes. Show cars compete by classes and sometimes there are up to 20 or 30 classes—from horseless carriages to late model contemporary automobiles.

Thirty points are given for interior appearance in each class, 30 for exterior appearance, 30 for engine and chassis, and 10 for mileage and age.

Camp's MG classifies under "Imported Open and Closed Car." He said that only the TC and one or two other models fall into this category.

For his classification, it is required that the vehicle be driven to the show. Points are even awarded for the fit of the top and side curtains.

At the Peacock Gap Concours d'Elegance in September, Camp's MG won first in its class. Some 200 cars competed in all classes.

Against 90 competitors at Hayward High School in October, the car won best of show and first in its class.

Camp belongs to the Abingdon Rough Riders, an affiliate of the original MG Car Club of England.

His car was built in Abingdon on the Thames, and he said that the organization gets its name from the notorious tough and hard ride of this automobile. Members of the club are limited to TC model owners only.

Patience and precision are a part of Camp's nature, he acknowledged, prerequisites for such an exacting hobby as auto restoring.

He is an airplane mechanic with United Airlines and works evenings. He admitted with a grin, however, that "airplanes are not my hobby."

Prowler Is Routed By S.S.F. Man

A South San Francisco man was slashed in the face Thursday night during a furious fight in his dark back yard with a man who may have been a "peeping tom."

Alvin George Pearce, 43, a terrazzo tile layer of 423 Northwood Drive in the Brentwood subdivision, said he was sure the other man is "packing some marks, too."

Pearce said he did not feel the cuts during the fight, and that he "belted" the other man "a few times" before the man jumped over a fence and disappeared in the darkness.

"I've never hit a man that hard and had him get away," said Pearce. "I've got a knuckle swollen up like a poisoned pup."

The fight came just after 9:30, while Pearce and his family sat watching television in the front room after a Thanksgiving dinner.

He saw a tall and shadowy figure move past the front window, he told police, and went outside to learn what the person wanted, or who it was.

Mrs. Pearce switched on the outside lights, but the outsider jumped a sideyard fence into a neighbors' heavily-planted yard.

Pearce followed the dark figure, overtaking the prowler behind some bushes that cut off the lights from his own home.

Other than Pearce's family, his wife, mother, father, and an aunt and uncle, no one else heard the battle.

After the man disappeared, Pearce returned to the house to call police, and his family discovered the bleeding cuts.

Pearce said they must have been made by a razor or very sharp knife, because he did not feel them when they were made.

'Rashomon' to Be Staged By Rams

"Rashomon," a stylized Japanese folk tale, will be presented at Westmoor High School's Little Theater beginning tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The play takes place in Kyoto, Japan, about 100 years ago at the edge of Rashomon Gate, at a police court and in a forest. One setting will provide for the three separate locales and the complete stage will be used so an open curtain will be in effect.

At stage right will be a suggestion of Rashomon Gate, the temple, which has become "a hide-out for thieves with a dump for unclaimed corpses." At stage left will be a suggestion of an ancient police court in which the characters testify to an unseen magistrate.

At the center will be the forest outside the city. Two separate parts of the forest need to be seen at different times: One part featuring a winding pathway and the other a wide clearing within a grove of trees. The actors will shift from the three locales by the use of lighting.

The stagecraft class has the task of building the specifics needed for the settings.

Sue Irby, who will portray the wigmaker in the play, is in charge of supplying different costumes needed.

By LE PACINI

IT SADDENED US last week to hear of the sudden and premature death of local civic leader Frank Curry.

We'd known Frank since our high school days, specifically when we played baseball for the American Legion's Rincon Hill Post. Frank, a World War II Marine Corps vet, was greatly interested in sports, especially baseball (he coached boys' baseball at OLM school here), and literally never missed a game that Rincon Hill played in those days.

He wasn't just a watcher. He was never too proud to carry a bat bag or shag lost fouls and he performed those menial functions with a dignity that always impressed us.

Frank Curry was a man who enjoyed what he did, from the big to the small, and that, we feel, is how best to remember him.

THE WEEK'S funny goes to the Terra Nova frosh-soph football player who came staggering off the muddy turf sending the sidelines into a chorus of, "Get the doctor... he's hurt... It's his head... etc." "Just give me a towel," the kid frantically motioned to his would-be helpers, "I've got mud in my eyes."

OCEANA footballer Keith Oden has been nominated by Congressman J. Arthur Younger to take the preliminary Civil Service examinations preparatory to appointment to the United States military academies.

AN INDICATION of how meaningful football "bowl" games have become could be measured by the announcement last week by the Gator Bowl committee that the LOSER of the Arkansas-Texas Tech game would probably oppose Georgia Tech in the bowl game. So the anti-hero concept, as exemplified by the Mets, has finally spread to football.

A BIG DEAL has been made by an Air Force advisory committee of the fact that cheating at the Air Force Academy was eight times more prevalent among football players than among other cadets who are not athletes.

What else can such hypocritical bodies expect. They recruit kids to be both football players and officers and gentlemen—in that order—and expect them to do well at both occupations under tremendous psychological and physical pressures without any more compensation than derived by non-athletes.

Every Saturday, they enter an arena to socially either live or die, to wait for either an elevated or lowered thumb by the same people who tell them that they are building their character, but who note how well the boys have learned to shout in unison, during calisthenics, "kill, kill, kill..." And, upon hearing their classmates shout from the stands during a game, "Hit 'em again, HARDER, HARDER, HARDER," who can blame such military athletes if they occasionally confuse their personal values and acquire, as the committee noted, "misplaced notions of loyalty."

WE HEAR PLAYBOY is going to choose an All-American squad again this year.

They have a unique method of choosing, you know. They throw all of their nominees into a locked room full of Bunnies and the 11 men who capture the most little creatures get picked. Which is about as good a way as any.

NOT THAT we have an affinity toward protecting huge corporations but we feel people in the sporting world are being unfair to Sports Illustrated by attaching to the magazine a "jinx" stigma.

As you may know, it seems that virtually every time an individual or team is featured in the magazine, the individual is hurt or the team goes into a slump.

While there are literally dozens of cases to support the "jinx" theory, a little cool calculation can explain it all away.

Sports Illustrated features only teams that are doing well. The magazine usually waits until they are at the peak of their proficiency to feature them.

As we all know, even the greatest team must come down once it reaches a certain peak. So it is bound to decline shortly after S.I. has featured it.

So what we should really do is marvel at S.I.'s amazing capacity for gauging athletic peaks.

How do we explain away the individual injuries? That's easy. Sports Illustrated jinxes 'em.

RANDOM THOUGHTS: Somehow we can't help but feel that this one is silly, but on the other hand, why not possible? Suppose there was this guy who was a great ice hockey player, but who couldn't skate worth a damn. What would you do with him?

Sports are like life because you're only big news if you're a big winner (Yankees, Celtics) or a big loser (guess). The teams who split, year in and year out, never make headlines.

In life, who makes the headlines? The big winners (sweepstakes winner, winner of a war, hero, millionaire) and the big losers (murderers, their victims, bums, tramps, victims of everything).

But the average people? Do they ever make the headlines for making it through the day alive or not killing anyone, or even doing something good for someone else who nobody's ever heard of? No. Never!

Now we all know how Dr. Hans Peter Tschudi feels. He's the president of Switzerland.

WHY IS IT that such a hullabaloo, you should excuse the expression, is always made over baseball salaries and holdouts while hardly anyone cares about what football players make (except for Joe Namath, of course)?

Alabama coach Bear Bryant has 13 assistant coaches. At least that's what he tells the newspapers and magazines. They're really his taxi squad.

And what a wonderful expression of the Olympic ideals were Cassius Muhammed Ali Big Mouth Clay and Floyd No-Jaw Patterson, both former Olympic gold medal winners.

Colma Karate Tourney Bound

The Colma Karate Dojo of 15 San Pedro Road in Colma, will be one of the participants in the United States vs. Japan Invitational Karate tournament to be held at Winterland in San Francisco Saturday.

Apart from the team contests, the program will consist of exhibitions by ranking karate experts from Japan.

There will also be exhibitions of the formal patterns that are basic to karate training.

Warriors Rout EC, Win Crown

It's S.S.F.'s Greatest Year Ever

By GARRY NIVER

Neither Ol' Man Weather, nor the El Camino Colts and a myriad of hopeful fans, could halt the South San Francisco High School Warriors at Clifford Field last Thursday.

The Mighty Warriors, replete with two heroes named Greg Jones and Johnny Moro, buried the El Camino Colts under an onslaught of touchdowns, 34-0.

Coach Ray DeJong's Blue and White crew completed its greatest year in the school's weathered history book and recorded its first completely undefeated season since 1942 as the Warriors handily annexed the North Peninsula League championship with a perfect 5-0 mark and a 9-0 over-all record.

Nearly 5,000 fans, including two horses and a one-eyed dog, braved the storm and watched on as the S.S.F. eleven made it strictly "no contest" from the opening gun.

When Jones, the most phenomenal back ever to bear the colors of the Industrial City, streaked 15 yards through the stop with 6:17 left in the initial period for a touchdown it was all over.

The Warriors rolled to a 20-0 halftime lead and then taunted their opponents for 14 more points in the second half, including a safety, for the victory.

FIGHTING BOTH muddy playing conditions and the El Camino High School defense, South San Francisco's Greg Jones plows through a hole for a short gain in last Thursday's 34-0 victory over the Colts. Jones was a terror all afternoon, as he was all through his prep career, and closed out a brilliant year with over 170 yards gained rushing. (Post-Times Photo)

The vaunted Warrior defense, which had accumulated some head press clippings during the year, didn't allow the giddy Colts past their own 48-yard line during the entire game and limited them to just 19 yards rushing.

Meanwhile, Jones, who will be the first North Peninsula back to make the North-South Shrine team since Joe Butcher did for the Warriors in 1957, rolled up 178 yards on the ground in rushing and 12 yards via a pass reception—and that didn't include nearly 100 yards called back because of infractions.

The shifty back passed the 1,000-yard mark this season when he made the first td, exceeding the heralded mark by four yards. His season's total stands at 1,141.

"It was sure a great feeling to win," said a jubilant DeJong after the contest.

"Greg (Jones) and Johnny were outstanding, and I thought that both our offensive and de-heroes either as linebacker Vic Ornelas played himself into exhaustion and big Ed Green, the "Jolly Green Giant" played the best game of his career, time and again crashing through to keep the Warriors off balance.

The heralded Jones made it 13-0 before the first quarter was over when he bounced off a wall of tacklers and sped 27 yards for the second Warrior td.

Moro, who had one of his finest days, passed to end Joe Smith for a 26-yard score just before the half ended to make it 20-0.

The warriors made it 26-0 with just three seconds left in the third quarter when Moro, shifting the ball from hand-to-hand, picked his way 33 yards through the Colt defense for another score.

A safety on El Camino and a six-yard run by fullback Steve Kingsbury concluded the scoring for the day as South S.F. racked up its 16th consecutive victory and its ninth of the season.

EARL ROCHLIN, Jefferson High School halfback, gets caught in the bandaged arm of an unidentified Terra Nova defender in last Wednesday's Indian-Tiger tilt on the Jeff field. Jefferson finished the year with a 13-7 win over the Coastside club to close with a 2-5-1 overall mark and a 2-3-0 league log. TN ended with a 4-4-1 season ledger and a 2-3-0 league mark.

Rams Crush Sharks, 33-7, Tie for Third at Windup

By RICH THILL

The North Peninsula League football race looks like Bayshore Freeway at the rush hour today with three clubs sharing third place.

Westmoor defeated Oceana, 33-7, last week to move into a third place tie. Jefferson also moved into the spot with a 13-7 win over Terra Nova.

Quarterback John Heick completed six out of 18 passes for 221 yards and two touchdowns to spark Westmoor's second win in five games. He hit Corky Phelps on a 54-yard TD play and Karl Fleischer on a 85-yard scoring shot.

Heick, who switched from halfback to quarterback to lead the Rams to their first win, had the Rams ahead 26-0 when Oceana scored its first touchdown against Westmoor's frosh-soph.

It came on a ten-yard pass from Varnier to John Roach.

Oceana didn't get a first down until the third period, but in that quarter the Rams frosh-soph team held the Sharks to two yards gained.

COUGARS IN NPL

Half Moon Bay High School enters the North Peninsula League this coming basketball season for the first time. The Cougars have a student body of 450 and will be the smallest school in the league.

All in a Losing Cause

HEMMED IN by two South San Francisco High School gridders, El Camino's little halfback Russ Outlaw (31) cuts back and tries to pick up yardage on the inside in the Colts' title game with their rivals to the south. SSF won the game, 34-0, to take their second straight NPL championship.

Jefferson Whips TN In Finale

By GENE GIBSON

Jefferson High School has to rank as one of the better "mud-ders" in the North Peninsula League.

The Indians used the marshy trenches to crawl to a 13-7 victory over Terra Nova High School at Daly City last Wednesday with fullback Al Namanny doing most of the heavy leg-work.

Namanny squirmed 81 yards in 20 carries and scored both touchdowns for the Indians.

The oozy muck of the gridiron forced both teams to operate from the trenches as no receiver seemed to be able to keep their footing in the mud.

The first score came when Namanny slipped into the end-zone from the five after a march of 48 yards. A blocked punt on the Tigers' four set up Namanny's next plunge as he punched in from the one to make the score 13-0 at half-time.

The third period saw nothing exciting until the end when the Tigers moved 64 yards in 20 plays before fumbling on the one-yard line. Indian end Bob Untalan saved the day for Jeff as he recovered the pigskin and kept the Tigers from scoring.

NEW NPL MEMBER

HMB Cagers To Face Lean Year

By JOHN HORGAN

(This is the first in a series of articles on North Peninsula League basketball teams and their prospects for the 1965-66 season.)

NOT UNEXPECTEDLY, Hail Moon Bay High School, the newest school in the North Peninsula League, is building for the future this year.

The Cougars of coach Chuck Short face the monumental task of forming a cage unit which can compete with the likes of Jefferson, South San Francisco and Westmoor. Such a chore will take time, effort and patience. The job won't be done this year.

"We have a very young team," says Short. "We are building with a young team here this year and I hope that we can stay competitive with the other schools in the NPL."

Short, who attended Pepperdine College and the College of Idaho (just prior to the glory days there of Elgin Baylor and R. C. Owens), has lots of young talent with which to work this season. In particular, the Cougar forces have a pair of 6-3 sophomores, both green, but both promising.

WALT MARMONT and Randy Houston are the two pivot men around whom Short is banking much of his hopes of a decent year. Neither boy is polished but, according to Short, "the promise is definitely there."

"With these two, both of whom might hit 6-5 or 6-6 in their senior year, we are building for the next few years," commented Short. Along with three more sophs, all 6-4, the Cougars will field the most youthful team in the league.

Tom Pacheco, Dave Wingate and Jim Allen round out the five-man soph group. All three figure prominently in the coming seasons. Likely starters this year will be: Jim Yogas (the sole returning letterman), 6-6, Ted Gains, 5-10; Mike Mulderick, 6-3; Jim Giacchino, 5-9, and probably Houston.

HALF MOON BAY, which played in the old Peninsula Athletic League for years before entering the Bay Counties League, went 4-14 last year over-all and 3-9 in BCL play.

With a student body of only 450 the Cougars are the smallest public school in San Mateo County. They figure to grow, however, in the very near future.

"Next year, we anticipate that our student body will rise to 550," said Short. "In five years we should hit 600."

Understandably, there is some degree of apprehension among members of the Cougar coaching staff at this juncture about the school's ability to stay competitive with the larger schools in the NPL. But Short is elated about the move.

"Even though basketball has never been lower over here we feel that the expansion plans of the league lie on the Coastside. When the league expands it will spread this way. We are very enthused about the move into the NPL. It's a real step 'up' for us."

SHORT'S CLUB will open its league season January 14 with its first league game in history against South San Francisco. (The Cougars did play the Warriors in the old PAL, but this is the first time that HMB will have played in the South S.F. title-favorites in the NPL.)

Undoubtedly, the present cage season will be a long one for Short and his team. But the future is bright and holds better things for them. Still, the Cougar fans will be forced to endure some ghastly drubbings at the outset. Still, upper lips are in order on the Coast.

South S.F.

Dominates NPL F-S

The South San Francisco High School freshman football team takes no back seat to the unbeaten varsity eleven.

Coach Lou Goins' gridgers won their 14th game in a row last week when they trounced El Camino, 38-0.

For the young Warriors the victory meant a second straight North Peninsula League title.

The victory closed the 1965 campaign for South S.F. with a fine 7-0 record over-all and a 5-0 league log. Practice wins were recorded over Rialto and El Camino.

Westmoor finished in second place with a 4-1-0 record. Their sole league loss was to the Warriors, 12-7.

Leading ball carrier for South S.F. this year was Vince Nash. Rocky Walter, his tailback replacement, was the second leading rusher on the club.

The rest of the backfield, most of whom will take over for graduating seniors off the varsity next season, was made up of Russ Cottrell, Randy Andriani and Craig Fryer.

The defensive line, which limited opponents to only 46 points, composed of: Don Willis, Marty McDonough, Jim Olmo, Greg Bergante, Alex Smith and Mike Henry.

On offense, the rugged Warriors tallied 190 points in those seven games for an average of over 27 points per game.

FIRST WEEK SET

NPL Cagers Will Start New Season

With football over, North Peninsula League basketball teams roll into high gear this week with five of the seven loop clubs getting their first taste of non-league action.

The week's feature attraction should be South San Francisco's duel with strong linemen of San Francisco Friday night at the home of the Mustangs.

That tilt will be the first game of a top prep doubleheader. The second game pits Washington of San Francisco against Berkeley.

Lincoln, a predominantly junior team last year, clipped the Warriors on the Industrial City team's home court last time. Friday's contest figures to be one of the better games of the year.

El Camino opens the cage season today with a home game with Lick-Wilmerding of San Francisco and their star, Joel Black.

The Colts will have their hands full defending against Black who racked up 29 points in the San Francisco club's easy 72-53 win over Galileo last Friday.

Westmoor, last year's NPL champ and considered the finest outfit in the county by most observers, hosts Poly of San Francisco tomorrow afternoon in its lid-lifter.

Coach Tony Giannone's crew is minus all five starters off last year's team and will be in trouble unless replacements can be found in time.

New league member Half Moon Bay travels to Crestmoor in its first game of the season Friday afternoon and thus will be tested by one of the most improved Mid-Peninsula League clubs.

Oceanside tackles its alumni Friday night on the Coastside to round out this week's schedule.

CSM Presents an Award

The Initial Murus McFadden award was presented last night to O. J. Simpson of San Francisco City College.

Simpson was selected as the outstanding football player in the Golden Gate Conference.

This presentation highlighted the annual awards dinner, which gives recognition to the members of College of San Mateo's football, cross-country, and water polo teams.

The award was inaugurated last spring in memory of Murus McFadden, the late Athletic Director of College of San Mateo, and will be given annually to the outstanding football player in the Golden Gate Conference. McFadden, "the dean of junior college coaches," was associated with the athletic department of College of San Mateo for 41 years (1923-64). He served as head varsity football coach for 25 of those years. During this tenure he had 16 championship teams and 7 second-place finishers, a record unlikely to be broken.

This year's recipient, O. J. Simpson, scored 126 points and rushed for 933 yards during the season, setting new league records in these two departments.

Team head coach, Dutch Elstoh, will join his star freshman halfback at the dinner. Dr. Lewis Batmale, commissioner of the Golden Gate Conference made the presentation.

The guest of honor was Mrs. Murus McFadden, who was accompanied by her two sons.

Ducats on Sale Tickets are now on sale for the 41st annual Shrine East-West football game at Kezar Stadium, December 31.

LAGUNA BEARS PLAN

New Group Will Aid Bay Schools

By BERENICE PALMER

Help for a heavy administrative burden facing school districts inaugurating new state and federal programs was described to a meeting of the Laguna Salada School District Board of Trustees.

District Supt. Frederick Lucas described an organization, of which he is secretary and treasurer, called the Bay Area Educational Research Service, or BAERS.

Plans were drawn up by BAERS at two executive meetings in October at the University of California at Berkeley.

Lucas described how the organization will study the impact of state mandates and federal programs on the administration of local school services.

Lists will be prepared of 20 new programs available at the elementary, secondary and junior college levels. Research will be done on their interpretation, application, implementation and cost. The results will be put into book form, Lucas said.

Affiliation with the Education Field Service Center at the University of California will enable BAERS to seek the advice of specialists from all public colleges in the Bay Area.

How do school districts make use of the BAERS organization? Lucas explained that all school districts are eligible to belong to the group. Nine counties are now members.

A pilot study of new programs for the Richmond School District in Contra Costa County will be used as a guide for other school districts.

Lucas described projects being studied by BAERS. These include the Elementary Secondary Education Act, which "pays the whole bill but adds only 2 per cent for administration," and the Federal National Defense Act. "This act," said Lucas, "is on a matching fund basis and doesn't take into account the low assessed valuation per pupil of our district."

He explained how BAERS will study the financial abilities of such districts that jointly have a high growth rate.

Another study of BAERS, Lucas said, will explore a new law that limits the suspension of pupils to 10 days unless they attend classes. Continuation classes in the same building may be provided for high school dropouts.

"We think many of these legislative projects are really wonderful," commented Lucas, "but we really don't know what they will cost. In many cases, funds have not been provided for their implementation. In others, there are partial or matching funds."

Truck Rolls Back, Hits Posts, Homes

A runaway newspaper delivery truck bowled over two 200-pound brick cornerposts, smashed against the corner of a house, and finally overturned in Daly City last Tuesday night.

The driver, Siegfried A. Beyer, 56, a driver for the San Francisco Examiner, said he had parked the vehicle at Evergreen Street and Bellevue Avenue, set the emergency brake but did not curb the wheels.

When he returned from delivering a paper at 508 Evergreen, the truck had rolled backwards about a half a block.

It had struck the two cornerposts at a house owned by James Bowman at 508 Evergreen and then careened against an unoccupied house at 561 Evergreen, owned by the Scandia Investment Company of San

They Won't Mind Going to Prison

Eighteen University of California students and their "professor" will be "jailed" by San Mateo County Sheriff deputies Friday.

The deputies will co-operate in a field seminar for the students who are studying correctional administration under Professor A. Lamont Smith.

The students will be issued jail bedding and will spend Friday night at Honor Camp 1, south of La Honda. The night in "jail" will culminate a day in which the students will have attended juvenile hearings, visited the San Mateo County Juvenile Hall, lunched at the hall and toured the sheriff's office in Redwood City.

The field seminar will supplement classroom study in a correctional administrative course in the School of Criminology at the University of California at Berkeley.

The home of William J. Robb of 150 Crocker Avenue in Daly City, was broken into last week and 30 silver dollars were taken according to police.

Bartender Stabbed In S.S.F. Tiff

A South San Francisco bartender was stabbed twice early Thanksgiving in what police described as a quarrel between him and his wife in their home at 102 Manzanita Drive.

Officers said Elmer Lee Inmon, 40, was stabbed in the left leg and left arm pit, by a steak knife. They said he did not seem to be seriously wounded and apparently would recover satisfactorily.

Police said the 3:40 a.m. stabbing ended a fight between Inmon and his wife, Joyce, which had begun when he arrived home from work at a San Francisco tavern.

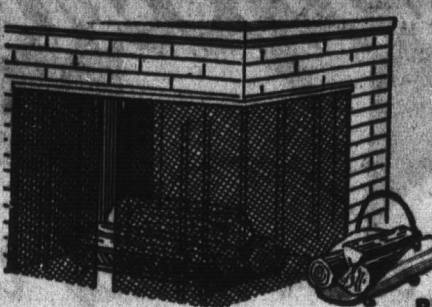

Mrs. Inmon was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Rat Influx Not Crisis Yet, But...

(An invasion of roof rats into some portions of the Westlake area of Daly City hasn't reached emergency proportions but "in time it could," a county health official told the Daly City council last week.

Reint Lingham of the San Mateo County Health Department said that too few homeowners in the affected area have been co-operating with the department and the Westlake Improvement Association in combating the invasion.

The rodent has been described by department experts as a sophisticated rat that prefers to scamper along fences and over roofs rather than live in sewers and near garbage.

Representatives of the homeowners' group complained about the rats at the last meeting of the city council and had asked for the city's co-operation in turning back the rat invasion.

The health department has prepared a set of instructions to aid homeowners in eliminating the rats and the association has made rat poison available for members.

"But the members aren't co-operating," Lingham charged. "If they followed the instructions, we could lick this thing." And then he warned: "If we don't lick this problem, we may have to give every resident an abatement notice that they are maintaining rats on their property."

Ben Waxman, representing the association, said that his group is still receiving complaints about the rats from members and that "the situation is not being taken care of."

Phil Duffy, a rodent control specialist from the health department and the author of the instructions prepared for residents, noted that about 40 homeowners have responded to the association's offer to provide rat poison.

After hearing the comments on the rat problem, Councilman Albert Polonsky remarked that as he saw it, the stumbling block in eliminating the rats was a lack of communication with homeowners.

Mayor Francis Pacelli said the control instructions could be mailed to homeowners along with the water bills.

He then directed city manager Edward Frank to consult with representatives of the association to determine the best way of alerting homeowners to the rat problem and informing them of the control steps that should be taken.

In other action, the council denied an application from the Richfield Oil Corporation to build a gas station at Eastmoor Avenue and Zita Manor.

The application had been approved by the planning commission after a public hearing in which several residents had opposed the construction of a station in their neighborhood.

Richfield had requested a delay by the council in considering the application until January.

City Attorney Paul Hupf noted that the company previously had asked for other postponements. He said that a continuation until January would require new notices to be mailed to neighboring residents.

In a letter to the council, Richfield asked that if the application could not be held over until January, it be withdrawn without prejudice to a future application.

Councilman Edward Dennis said the council should accept the withdrawal rather than deny the application.

"I think it's unfair. I don't

STREET LIGHTS

Night Outlook In D.C. to Brighten

Daly City is about to get a new outlook on life—at night.

The city, together with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, is in the process of increasing the lighting on Daly City streets east of Junipero Serra Boulevard.

According to Art Reschke, city engineer, "It's not a question of age here, but a question of the kind of lighting used."

In fact, some of the lights in use now are relatively new. "The lights might be new, but their method of illumination is old," Reschke explained.

The street lights in the older section of the city generate 2,500 lumens (the standard unit for measuring light). The new lights will triple that figure to 7,500 lumens.

Ordinance For Salary Hike Heard

Daly City councilmen, acting under a new legislation passed this year, heard the first reading of an ordinance last week that would give them a salary of $150 a month compared to their present $50 wage.

The legislation authorizes city councilmen to pay themselves the salary based on population. Daly City falls in a 50,000 to 75,000 population category specified in the legislation and thus may pay its councilmen $150 a month.

The ordinance will be voted upon at the council's next meeting.

At the council's last meeting, representatives of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce and civic groups urged that councilmen adopt a new salary ordinance.

The ordinance would not become effective until April of next year when three councilmen's posts will be up for election.

On the motion to deny this application, Dennis abstained.

In other business, the council approved the rezoning of a lot at 23 Werner Avenue for a fourplex housing unit. An application for the rezoning had been filed by the property owners, the Ladies Home Club.

At a hearing before the Planning Commission, a representative of the club said the organization's incorporation charter would expire next year and that the club wanted the rezoning so that the lot could be sold.

The club initially did not file plans for development of the property but did so after the city attorney ruled that the plans were necessary before a rezoning could be granted.

The council concurred with a Planning Commission recommendation and denied a request from Foster and Kleiser of Oakland, a billboard company, to raise an existing sign 10 feet on San Jose Avenue, 75 feet north of Beplar Street.

THEFTS REPEATED

John Zamora of 1147 Brunswick Street, Daly City, reported to police last week that a camera, pistol, bullets and a Christmas Club check for $255 had been stolen.

Junior High Units Set In S.S.F. Schools

Starting next fall, South San Francisco will have San Mateo County's only true "junior high schools."

Trustees of the Unified South San Francisco District agreed last week to go ahead with the plan as a means of lessening crowding at El Camino and South San Francisco high schools.

Instead of starting ninth grade students as high school freshmen, next year the district will keep the students at the intermediate schools they have been attending, Parkway, Southwood, and Alta Loma.

Dr. Clifton Boyack, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum and instruction, will be directing the shift of teachers and equipment to make the transition not only possible but effective.

Until then, South San Francisco will continue in the same pattern as other county schools, kindergarten through sixth grade in elementary school, seventh and eighth grades in intermediate schools, and ninth through twelve in high schools.

The six-three-three plan is considered one of the natural outgrowths of a unified school system.

LAGUNA REPORTS ON NEW PROGRAM

The Role of Kindergarten

WHAT ARE kindergartens for?

This question, asked by the Association for Childhood Education, also is being asked by parents and answered by many elementary school districts in California as part of a stepped-up education program for young children.

The Laguna Salada School District in Pacifica has issued a progress report on implementation of a kindergarten curriculum along the lines of recommendations approved by the district's board of trustees last June.

Some parents of kindergarten students in the district have expressed dissatisfaction with the program so far and feel that their children are still playing with crayons and that teaching has not advanced much beyond the nursery school stage.

The district replies that teaching of formal reading and other subjects in the kindergarten is still under question, because readiness—physical, social, emotional and mental—plays a large part in this teaching.

At two kindergarten teachers' meetings in September and October, teachers discussed readiness and screening as well as new programs and materials. Parent orientation meetings also took place in the fall.

AMONG THE tests used in the district to screen kindergarten students and evaluate their maturity and readiness for newer programs were the "Draw-A-Man," the Rutgers Test and the Banham Test.

It was brought out at the teachers' meeting in October that any maturity in one area alone was not in itself an indication of total maturity.

Drawing tests measure inherent abilities and correlate them with intelligence test ratings.

Other tests measure bodily co-ordination, eye-hand co-ordination.

Observation by the school psychologist, curriculum consultant, and perhaps the principal further identify extreme cases of immaturity or maturity in the classroom.

NEW MATERIALS for building pre-reading skills are now being used in kindergarten classes.

Each kindergarten teacher also has the Scott-Thompson Book, "Phonics," a reverse from the "sight and say" method of learning to read—a method that in the past was blamed by parents for many reading failures.

Teachers also have been encouraged to introduce writing skills in kindergarten with crayon and pencil when pupils have achieved sufficient co-ordination and perceptual ability.

Also inaugurated has been a music program as well as science studies.

A few of the parents who have felt impatient with the testing and what they think is a lack of implementation of the new program don't realize, according to District Supt. Fred Lucas, that the teachers do not have to wait until test results to get going. However, he said, "good habits have to be learned at the beginning or they will be unlearned."

He explained how closely the teacher must work with each child, who must also learn to work in closely supervised groups.

With proper screening, ability will determine groupings and conserve teachers' time, Lucas said.

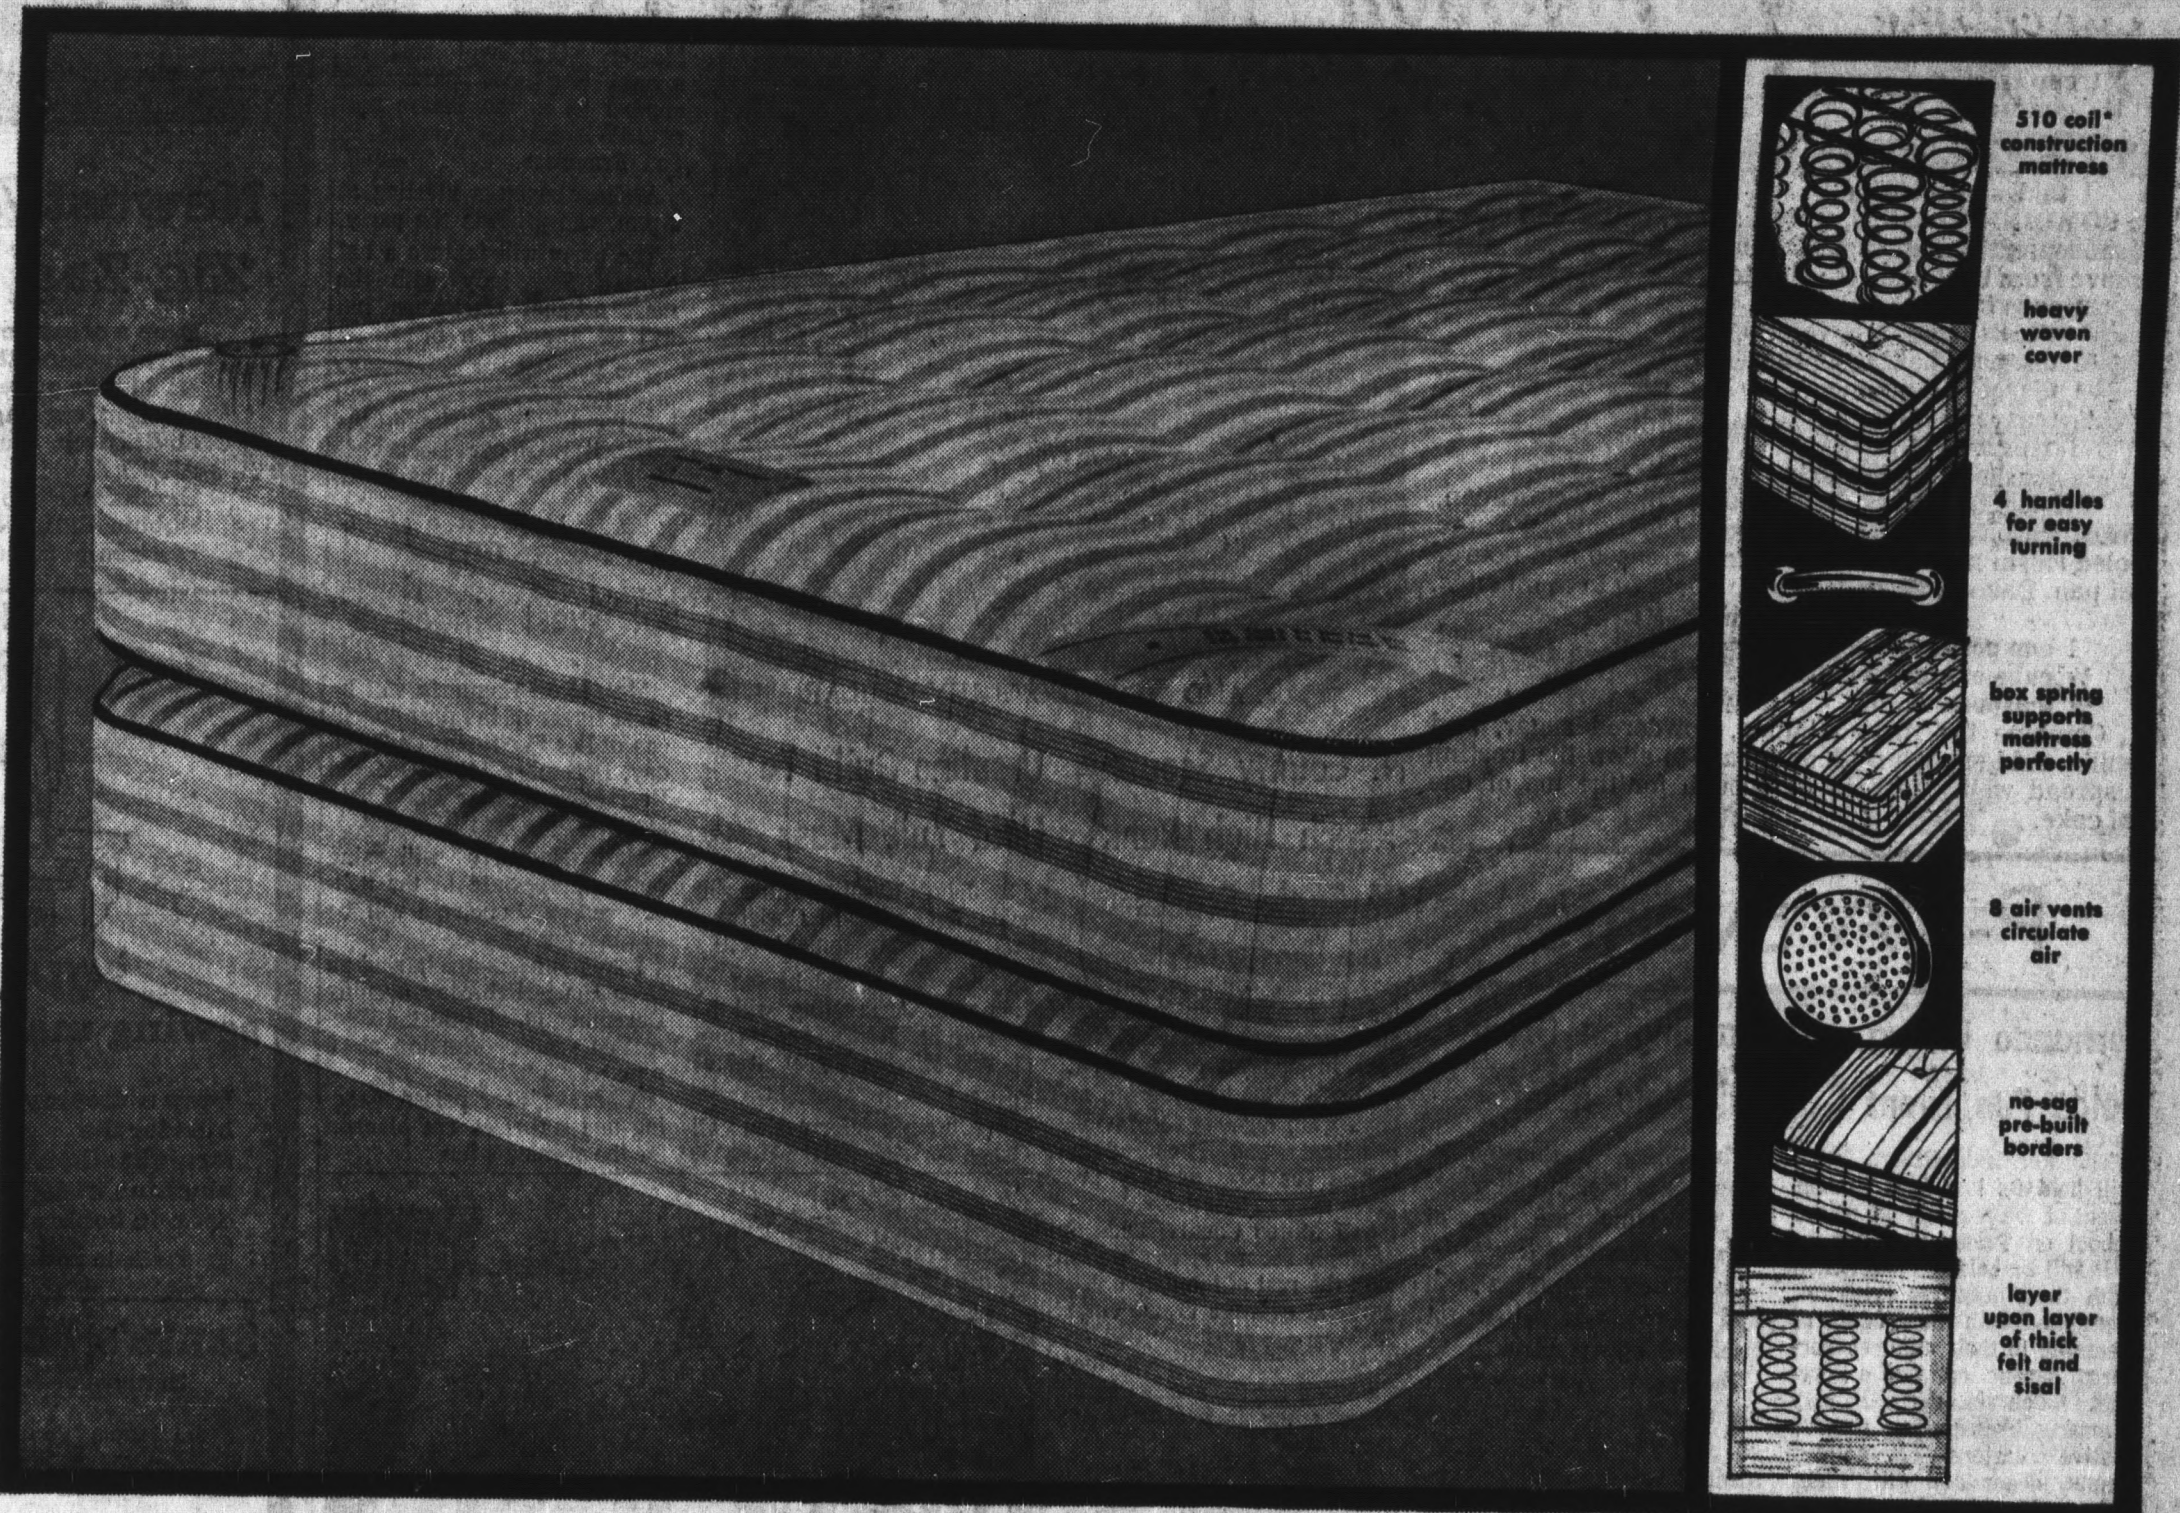

TODAY'S KINDERGARTEN students may be envied by upper grade students who studied the Dick and Jane Reading Books, containing the endless, "Look, look, see, see!" phrases.

Cutting, pasting and coloring in Laguna Salada kindergartens are on their way to being replaced by reading, writing and arithmetic and nursery schools are more and more teaching processes.

Once the North County campus of College of San Mateo is built and Pacifica adults have the nearby advantages of a junior college, education from the "cradle to the grave" may become more a reality than just a phrase.

Terra Nova Topics

By MARIA MONTENAGRO

THERE WILL BE boos and cheers sounding from the Terra Nova cafeteria tomorrow night, the opening of the school play, "The Curse of an Aching Heart," or "Trapped in the Spider's Web."

Hopefully, the cheers will be for the hero in this old-fashioned melodrama, Lucius Goodenough (played by Jerry Olson). The villainous Windermere Hightower (Armando Melendez) will be booed for his unwanted attentions towards heroine Melody Lane (Kathy Pavka).

The play will run Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, starting at 8 p.m. Tickets can be obtained at the door for $1.25 or 75 cents with a student body card.

THE SPEECH TOURNAMENT held at Terra Nova Saturday, November 20, proved successful for TN's 23 speakers. For many, it was their first tournament. A first-timer, Kathy Sullivan, placed fifth in the finals for original oratory while Claudia Reilly also placed fifth in oratorical interpretation. Participants from 20 Bay Area high schools spent the day participating at Terra Nova. All were greatly impressed by the TN campus.

A FOREIGN exchange student is expected to attend Terra Nova next year through the A.F.S. (American Field Service) program. Plans are under way to raise funds and make preparations. The Pacifica chapter of A.F.S. also must find a home for the student.

It's the KYA disc jockeys vs. the TN faculty in a basketball game set for December 10 at Terra Nova. The game will start at 8 p.m. Admission will be $1.25 or $1 with a Terra Nova student body card.

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

TAKE A QUICK look in the very top of the right corner of this page, what do you see? That today is December 1, and even if you are as poor at arithmetic as I am you can figure out that there are just 24 more days until Christmas. To our children this is a source of great joy, and it would be to us too, if we were further along with our shopping and card writing.

Do you know that I have a friend who already has her gifts wrapped and her cards addressed? Well, she WAS my friend, I can't maintain a friendship with anyone that organized and efficient. So if you are like me—sort of harassed and busy making lists—greetings, friend.

And like a true friend I want to do something to help you in this time of hustle and bustle.

The thing that is a great help to me right now is a dinner dish that is tasty and doesn't take too long to prepare. I found such a dish, made it and can recommend it to you good (and busy) cooks.

FRENCH FRIES AND BEEF CASSEROLE

1 POUND GROUND BEEF

- ¾ cup coarsely chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 2 cans condensed tomato soup
- ½ cup water
- 1½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon fine herbs, optional
- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas, partly defrosted and broken apart
- 1½ cups thinly sliced carrots, parboiled
- 2 pkgs. (9 oz. each) frozen French fries

BROWN BEEF and onion in oil, leaving meat in chunks. Add soup, water and herbs; mix. (Here I want to mention about the carrots. The recipe called for thinly sliced carrots, and I sliced mine as thin as the safety of my fingers would allow. They still didn't cook by the time the rest of the casserole was ready. So I recommend that you parboil them and use the water you cook them in to make up the half-cup called for in the recipe.) Layer foods into shallow two-quart casserole, using one-half each of meat mixture, peas, carrots and French fries. Repeat.

Cover with foil and crimp edges of foil over edge of casserole. Heat in 375-degree oven about 35 minutes.

Remove foil; return to oven and lightly brown top, about 10 minutes. Makes six servings.

WHILE WE are thinking along the lines of things that are easy to prepare and delicious to taste, I must pass on this recipe for raisin cake. As is frequently the case in the acquisition of recipes, this one came to me in a rather indirect route.

My daughter is in the Girl Scouts and her leader is Mrs. Joan Luders of 11 Weston Drive, Daly City. The troop had a Halloween party last month and Mrs. Luders' mother attended. As is often the case with mothers, she didn't come empty-handed. In fact, she had something delicious in each hand: Raisin cakes. So with a bow of thanks to Mrs. Jack J. Marinkovich of 1807 Seventeenth Avenue, San Francisco, we will pass along her wonderful recipe.

RAISIN CAKE

- 1 cup raisins
- 1½ cup water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon cocoa

COMBINE RAISINS, water, sugar, butter and cocoa in saucepan. Bring to boil (until butter melts) then remove from heat and set aside to cool.

- 2 cups flour
- Pinch of salt
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, and baking soda. Combine with the cooled raisin mixture and pour into greased and floured loaf pan. Bake in 350-degree oven about 30 to 35 minutes.

FROSTING

- 1 cup powdered sugar
- ¼ cube of melted butter
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine the melted butter, powdered sugar, and vanilla. Add enough milk or cream to allow the frosting to spread well. This makes enough for the top of one loaf cake.

By LOUANNE HEATH

IF THE CROWDS in the stores haven't as yet alerted you to the fact that Christmas will soon be here, then surely the bitter bite in the air has!

Shoppers, by the wholesale, and tiny sports cars sprouting protrusions which could only be antennae for some monstrous beetle but turn out, prosaically enough, to be skis, all indicate we will soon be smelling pine boughs and hanging mistletoe.

Thanksgiving weekend saw many families on the road headed for family reunions.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rogers and sons, Keith and David, traveled to Big Basin for family Thanksgiving celebrations.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL SUGRUE and family also enjoyed a day with relations while Marty continued to recuperate.

Excitement and tension can be pretty unbearable for youngsters and Daly City's David Bion and John DeAngels can testify.

The two youngsters, both music students of Armin Oliviera, were selected to audition for the Ted Mack Show. Awaiting the results of the great day is almost torture!

MRS. ALBERT MARCUS and Mrs. Ernest Sherne, co-ordinators of the Westmoor Dance Group, have announced the addition of a new teacher to the faculty of the Westmoor Creative Dance Group.

Hannah Nunn, a former student at the Juilliard School of Music and the University of Utah, recently joined the dance school staff.

Miss Nunn has taught both children and adults in New Mexico, Wyoming, and Colorado as well as in the Bay Area. Mrs. Sherne reports. She has experience in the theater, including being an assistant director and performer with the Boulder, Colorado, Civic Opera and the director of the Children's Theatre Play.

Mrs. Marcus or Mrs. Sherne will be happy to furnish any additional information about the latest faculty member or concerning the non-profit dance program. Mrs. Sherne will accept calls about the program any day at 756-8089.

DON'T FORGET, an exciting art exhibit and the opportunity to do a little early Christmas shopping are on the agenda for this weekend as the Mental Health Auxiliary sponsors its first fund raiser in the new mental health center at 45 Southgate Avenue in Westlake.

Mrs. Paul Bowman is the exhibit chairman and will be on hand to welcome guests Saturday and Sunday. The art auction will be held Sunday afternoon.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS and Christmas - style baked goods will be featured in the Holy Angels Parish Hall this Sunday morning, following each mass.

Mrs. Joan Sabbatani, Mrs. Bernice Chapot, and Mrs. Lorraine Monks are the chairmen of the annual Women's Guild baked goods sale.

Shoppers may snack on coffee and donuts as they visit the sale booths.

CHIC AND VERY fetching French caps and aprons, the creations of the clever needle artist, Mrs. Charles Ashworth, will be the uniform of the day for the 11 high school misses serving refreshments during the fashion show being sponsored by the Federated Women's Club of Pacifica.

Cathy Simon, Joan Burns' de, Linda Richardson, Jeanne Bendik and Canday Tory are the teen dolls who will represent Terra Nova High School and Valerie St. Jean, Jennifer Schlotz, Matalie Des Ruisseau, Linda Dyer, Judy Jensen, and Barbara Carroll will complete the contingent from Oceana High School.

Mrs. Don McMannis and Mrs. Laurence Mathews, Mrs. Gordon MacDonald, Mrs. Charles Bush, and Mrs. Ashworth have been making center pieces for all the tables and the executive board plans to sell them following the show.

Money from the sale of tickets and the centerpieces will go to the club scholarship fund, according to Mrs. Eva Morton, publicity chairman.

KATHY KNEASS, Rosemarie Matthews, Sandra Matthews, Nancy Mayfield, Lisa Elliot, Connie Castillo, and Debbie Haugen were initiated into the Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel 348 during impressive ceremonies held in the Masonic Temple recently.

According to Bethel publicity chairman Linda Price, Monday evening will be the Farewell Night for retiring Honored Queen Karen Narup and a full program is being planned. The business segment of the evening will include proficiency tests for those officers who have not yet taken the oral examination. Miss Narup will preside over this final rite before turning her gavel over to Honored Queen Elect Marcia Phinney.

The evening will conclude with a program of entertainment, Miss Price said.

THE FIFTY PLUS CLUB of Pacifica has finally extended its benevolence projects to the limit and as a result there simply won't be any time for the members themselves to relax at a Christmas gathering of their own.

According to club President Edna Laurel Calhan, the December calendar was packed with projects designed to help others. On December 18 the members will make their traditional trip to the Veterans' Hospital and fete the World War I veterans at a huge funfest and gift exchange.

December 11, Santa's special will depart for the Santa Cruz Mountains and a tour of Santa's Village. This jolly trip is one to which the members can look forward to with a great deal of anticipation for side excursions are also in the works.

The New Year's Eve will complete a month of hectic activity, according to Mrs. Calhan.

Planning ahead into the new year, members are currently being asked to consider making their reservations for a February 19 trip to the South Shore of Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. Calhan reports that the trip will include round trip transportation by bus, one night's lodging at the Holiday Lodge, a refund of $4 and free coffee. Complete price for this excursion will be $17.50. Call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg for reservations.

Future topics planned center on Hemingway's book, "The Old Man and the Sea" and the present best seller, "The Games People Play."

Getting at the heart of one of urban man's basic concerns — how to live with change and like it — is the theme of Arnold Come's "Reluctant Revolution," which will also be studied and discussed as part of a pilot-project under the Glide Urban Center.

Contest Windup

BILL LAMBERT of Redwood City, right, receives a check for $300 from Harold Schlotthauer, general manager of The Post-Times. Lambert won the $300 by picking 14 of 15 winners in the final week of the Post-Times' football contest. He was the only contestant of some 4,000 who submitted entries to pick 14 correct games.

14 Winners Worth $300

An assistant superintendent of mails at the Menlo Park Post Office is the tenth and final winner in the Post-Times' weekly football contest.

Bill Lambert of Redwood City won first prize of $300 by picking 14 of the 15 winners of games played on the weekend of December 20.

His only mistake was not predicting a tie between the Boston Patriots and the Kansas City Chiefs.

Lambert is a native of South Dakota and has lived on the Peninsula since 1941. He is the father of four daughters.

He had been submitting one or two entries each week during the contest.

Those who picked 13 winners were: Tony Cosola of Daly City; Mrs. Esther Oates and Jo Tyrrell of San Bruno; Frank Goss and E. J. Stotereau of Burlingame; Jeff Gibbs, Ron Ebertson, Diane Zimmer, Mike Hanaouchi, G. G. Mendoza, John Ellis, Rudolph Morales, Bob Kimbrough, Bill Boyle, and Tony Knibbs.

Bob Burbank, H. St. John, Mike Agoff, S. A. Johnson, C. Huggenberger, J. C. Baker, H. L. Britton, and John Stewart, of San Mateo; Joseph Zugelder of Belmont; Fred Enos of Redwood City; Bob Cefalu of San Francisco; H. A. Nelson of Sunnyvale, and Gemma Meiller of Hayward.

Two Injured In Accidents In Daly City

Two persons were injured, one critically, in two traffic accidents in Daly City last Monday.

Buenaventura Mendoza, 30, of San Francisco, suffered multiple fractures and internal injuries when he was struck by a car about 7:30 p.m. at Rio Verde Street and Geneva Avenue.

He was admitted in critical condition to St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco.

The driver of the car was identified as Cecil J. Maretti, 52, of 318 Irvington Street, Daly City.

In the other accident, John Garcia, 16, of 32 Oceanside Drive, Daly City, suffered cuts and bruises when he lost control of his motorcycle near his home and it careened against a parked car owned by John Morse at 47 Oceanside about 3:20 p.m.

Garcia was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco.

50 Per Cent Of Pledges Give Blood

Even though the turnout for the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce's November 19 blood drive was up 30 per cent from last year, the total number of persons actually giving blood was only 43.

Charlie Marosis, chairman of the event, said only half of the persons—who had signed up to give blood bothered to give this time.

"The people don't realize what we are trying to do," he commented. "The blood is for the benefit of the entire community, and the blood remains in the name of the person who gave it."

Even with the increase in giving, the Daly City area is still ranked the lowest in Northern California on the basis of per cent of population giving blood, Marosis said.

RPC Urges Open Spaces For County

If San Mateo County is to preserve adequate open space for the years to come, a program of public acquisition will be required, the Regional Planning Committee of San Mateo County has been told.

Larz Anderson, assistant county planning director, made the statement as he reported on progress of studies being conducted by the RPC's open space and conservation subcommittee and eight other subcommittees.

The report was given at a general membership meeting held at San Mateo City Hall.

Sam Halstead, Portola Valley city councilman, was elected chairman for 1966, succeeding Cecil Wells, San Mateo planning commissioner. Paul Keckley, Redwood City planning commissioner, was named vice chairman to succeed James Williams, Brisbane councilman.

Elected to the executive committee, in addition to the outgoing and incoming officers, were: Peter Weinberger, San Bruno commissioner; James Murray, San Mateo councilman; Donald Cahen, Millbrae commissioner; Joseph Judge, San Carlos councilman; Edward Dennis, Daly City councilman; May Gee, Pacifica commissioner, and Jean Falsler, county supervisor.

The RPC took these actions:

Endorsed the S Route for the Coast Freeway through Half Moon Bay and the M Route for the Nineteenth Avenue extension to Half Moon Bay. These routes have been recommended by the city of Half Moon Bay and the county.

Asked state and local agencies to do everything possible to eliminate pollution of the bay. The subcommittee on inland waterways reported that its planning is based on the assumption that such action will be taken.

Requested Woodside and the county to take steps to secure easements for trail crossings of Junipero Serra Freeway at Raymond, Woodside and Walsh Roads.

Reminded city officials that law now permits them to require dedication of park space as a condition of approval of a subdivision.

Urged that the county take appropriate steps to assure that refuse disposal sites will ultimately become available for recreational purposes.

RADIO STOLEN

Jerald Kramer of 101 Palmcrest Drive, Daly City, reported to police last week that a transistor radio had been stolen from his car, parked in the Westmoor High School parking lot.

FIRST IN AREA

D.C. Station Will Offer Car Rentals

Budget Rent-A-Car, leading national discount in the auto rental field, has set up its first Westlake and Daly City outlets at Fred's Westlake Shell Stations at 565 Skyline Drive, and 2001 Junipero Serra Boulevard.

Owner-operator is Fred M. Tautenhahn, 29, a young service station operator and promoter who has made the phrase "Fred says 'Business is good,'" a familiar by-line to North County residents.

Tagline of the new operation will be Budget Rent-A-Car of Westlake, which will offer standard and compact cars at discount daily rates beginning with $5 a day and 5 cents a mile. In addition they will make autos available on a weekly plan of $69 per week plus gasoline.

"Budget originated the '5 and 5,'" reports Tautenhahn, "and from this built an organization which is now in fourth place nationally in car rentals. As an introductory special, we are going to offer all our new 1966 cars, despite their size, at that same rate that made Budget famous."

"We know from Budget's record nationally," said Tautenhahn, "that low price rentals appeal not only to the tourist and businessmen who travel on their own money, but to homeowners who need cars only on weekends, apartment dwellers linked by lack of parking facilities, and those whose own cars are in the shop for any extended time."

"To bring a very badly needed service to Westlake, Daly City and Pacifica, we plan to begin operation with 10 cars the first week and will build from there. Our fleet will consist of compacts as well as the Mustang, Toronado and T-Bird."

A native of Los Angeles, Tautenhahn and his family have lived in Westlake for nine years. He is well-known as the convivial go-getting operator of two service stations employing more than 14 persons which will also serve as the outlets for his auto rental activity.

Tautenhahn is president of the Skyline Plaza Merchants' Association, and treasurer of the recently re-activated Daly City Junior Chamber of Commerce. He resides at 850 Skyline Drive, Daly City, with his wife Alma, daughter Pamela Marie, 8, and son Guy Frederick, six months.

Bill Adams Realty Moves To Larger Skyline Office

The new office includes a separate escrow department, closing room and ample quarters for a staff that has been expanded to include 14 sales personnel and an escrow secretary.

The realty firm began as a two-man operation in June of 1961.

The staff today includes Gordon Briggs, office manager; Lynn Bracken, Jack Capps, John Casey, Gary Fairchild, Helen Gore, Mary Hayner, Dennis Lavin, Pat Mathers, Bud

Extension Of Runway Is Assured

Extension of San Francisco International Airport's Runway 28-Left to 10,600 feet and the development of an instrument landing system (ILS) for that runway was assured under a Federal Aviation Agency grant of $674,972 submitted last week for acceptance by the city's Public Utilities Commission.

Action by the commission was in the form of a resolution to the Board of Supervisors requesting formal acceptance of the grant.

James K. Carr, general manager of public utilities, told the commission the grant will cover approximately 57 per cent of the project's total cost of $1,175,000 with the remainder to be paid from airport revenues.

Major items covered in the grant include runway and taxiway pavement, installation of in-runway lighting and construction of a timber trestle on which required approach lights will be installed.

FAA participation in the cost of demolition of the Executive Aircraft Terminal and other structures to make way for the runway's extension also was included in the grant.

"Upon completion of this work and the installation of appropriate air navigational aids," said Carr, "Runway 28-Left will meet FAA requirements for Category II aircraft landing operations under minimum weather approaches."

Airport general manager George F. Hansen noted that the major airlines actively are engaged in the airplane installations and pilot training program for Category II minimums and can anticipate full use of the instrument landing system runway at San Francisco International Airport by October of next year.

Auto Wash Permit Turned Down by S.S.F. Planners

Another "auto laundry" has been turned down by a North Peninsula city, as South San Francisco's City Planners have followed in the footsteps of Burlingame, Millbrae, and San Bruno.

Planners denied a use permit sought by Colwell Construction of San Bruno to build and operate a coin-operated self-service car-wash on Mission Road between that firm's pee-wee golf course and its golf driving range. The planners approved, however, Caesar-Callen Homes' request for 35 four-plex homes and 65 single-family homes in West Park.

They granted a side yard variance for L. F. Humphrey at 346 Del Monte Avenue, but continued for more study the Stonegate Ridge planned community approval sought by William H. Young. Planners indicated further public hearing of the proposal would be allowed November 29, at a special meeting.

Somebody Has To Play Piccolo

THE IMPENDING 1966 campaigns in California, whatever else they may be, are not going to be sweet music to the professional politicians or even to the amateurs who are hopeful of reaching a professional status. This is true in both parties.

The tuning-up sessions in Fresno, which has recently been host to both the California Democratic Council and the United Republicans of California, were replete with goose notes and clinkers.

Other preliminary gatherings of the political faithful of both parties have been just as discordant and inharmonious.

It is decidedly doubtful that any leaders, in either party, can concoct a political symphony when all the members of the orchestra insist upon being solo virtuosos, conductors, concert masters, or composers.

CALIFORNIA is not alone in this hubbub. All over the nation, in almost every state, people appear to be refusing to "play politics" according to the old rules. Some of the biggest political machines have already gone to the scrap heap and others are sputtering and knocking in an ominous way.

Perhaps the intra-party scuffling just sounds louder in California because we are closer to it and because California party chieftains are themselves so involved in the noise that they haven't got time to call a hush.

Already this suggests that the 1966 campaigns in California may be a chaos of jealousies, name-calling, and cross purposes damaging to Republicans and Democrats alike.

If such a situation develops, it will have to be the people of the state, themselves, who must take charge. Fortunately, Californians have previously shown that they are entirely capable of doing just that—which is cold comfort to politicians.

THE DANGER of the strife inside each of the two parties is that it tends to vitiate the two-party system and is far more damaging in his respect than the temporary dominance of either party.

The two-party system may have some faults but it has served well and successfully. It should not be made futile by the inability of either party to discipline itself or reconcile internal differences.

What the politicians, professional and amateur, must learn anew is that they can't all conduct the orchestra. Somebody has to play the piccolo.

Melange Of This 'n That

DAN DEITCH, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Deitch of Hillsborough, who performed with the Stanford Summer Festival Theatre this year, is back at Harvard University. He has been cast as Ariel in the Loeb Drama Center production of "The Tempest" and is working toward his Master of Arts degree.

While I'm still raving about "The Knack . . . And How to Get It" there is a picture in the works entitled "The Fad . . . And How to Use It." There's a pun in there somewhere about pooling resources but Ross Hunter is having enough trouble finding the right cast for the latter. He figures he'll save $1,500,000 by starring unknowns and will use the money to publicize the picture (no he hasn't sent me any). Out of 2,300 tested, only 20 have received Universal Studio contracts.

Three movie stars have taken to "moonlighting." Danny Kaye will conduct the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra Sunday at the Opera House, Milton Berle will debut as a symphony conductor with the Indianapolis Symphony in March and Ray Bolger will host the television special January 22, "On the Road to Pebble Beach." The latter will be the commemorative twenty-fifth anniversary of the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament.

SONNY AND CHEE fans (they're the kookie long-haired young married couple who dress so far out who appeared on the rock and roll programs at both Hyatt Music and Circle Star Theatres earlier this year), will make their first feature film. It will be titled "I Got You, Babe," which is the title of their BIG hit song. They sing and talk but don't accompany themselves.

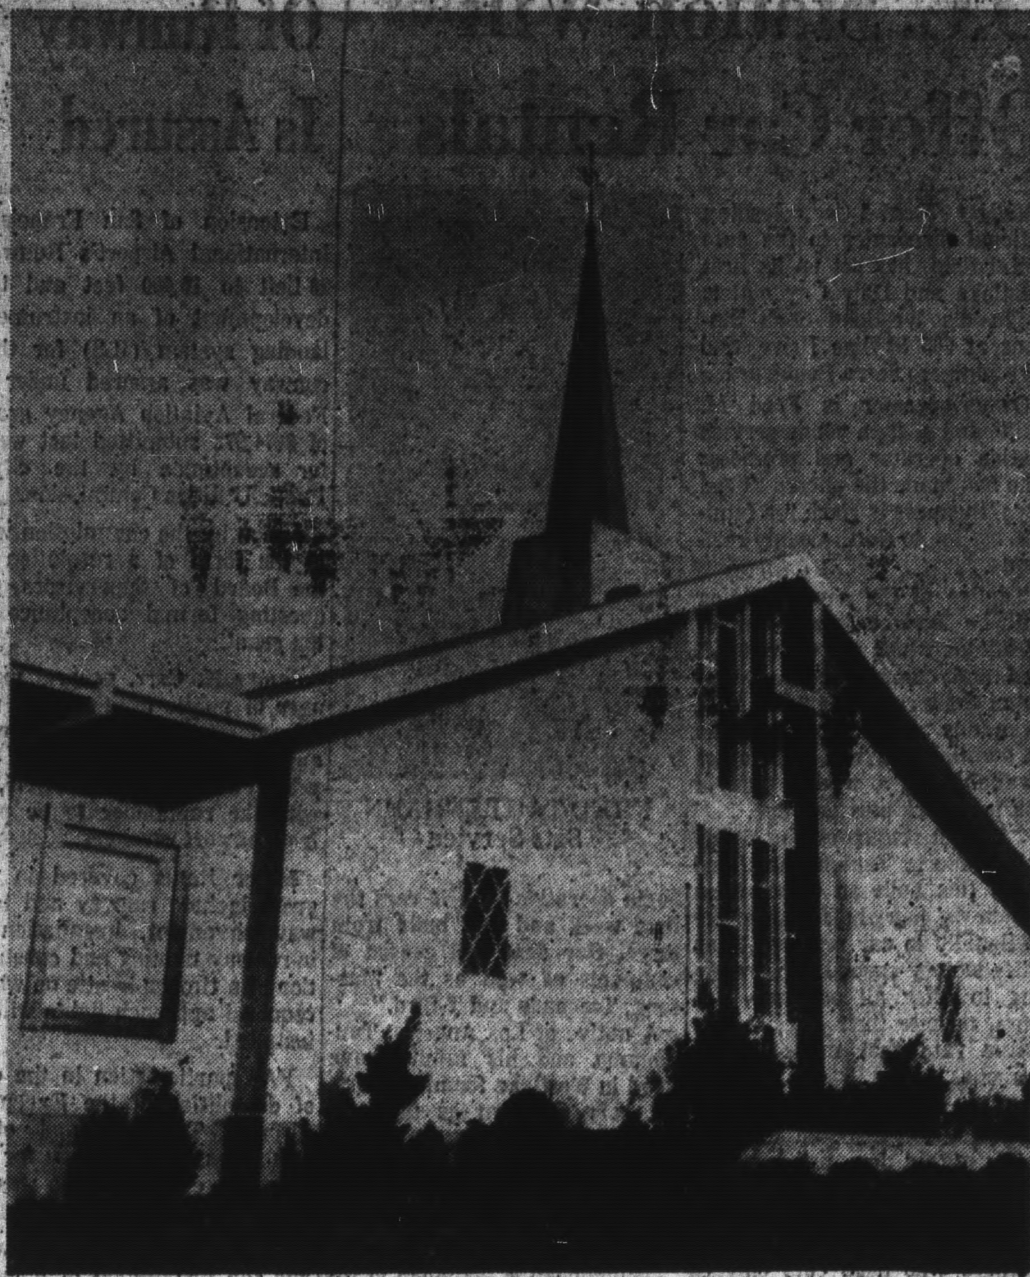

Two long-time classic scripts will find their way into new mediums. Harold Hecht has acquired film rights to "Finian's Rainbow," the popular musical by E. Y. Harburg, Fred Saisy and Burton Lane. They are the latest to show positive interest in putting the long-time favorite musical onto film. There have been previous discussions from Joseph E. Levine to star Debbie Reynolds in the role played in Burlingame last month by Tammy Grimes at the Hyatt Theatre and other producers have made a bid for it in the past.

The latest report is that Harburg and Lane will write two new songs. Saisy will join Harburg in doing the screen version from their original book. The show first opened on Broadway in 1947 and has been done in stock and in every country in the world.

EUGENE O'NEILL's play, "Mourning Becomes Electra," will be staged at the Metropolitan Opera House at Lincoln Center next season by Michael Cacoyannis, who directed the film, "Zorba, The Greek." The David Levy opera was financed by the Ford Foundation grant. The heroine's role will be sung by Evelyn Lear.

Broadway's newest hit is "Royal Hunt of the Sun," which concerns the conquest of the Incas Empire by Pizarro. It opened last week to rave notices and has already been named a hit on the London stage. We'll see it out here next season as part of the Theatre Guild subscription series. Without ado, Merle Ransohoff (who made "The Sandpipers") and his company, Filmways, Inc., have acquired the screen play for MGM Productions. It will be filmed next year in Peru.

Grace Covenant Church

GRACE COVENANT CHURCH of 740 Del Monte Avenue in South San Francisco was founded in 1954. The first congregation met in the chapel at the Colma cemetery. The present building was finished and dedicated in 1959. Rev. Robert H. Nelson, the present pastor, is the fifth pastor at the church. He has served for two-and-a-half years. There are approximately 70 members in the congregation. (Post-Times Photo)

Better Business

'Uncle' Crowds In On Business

Lorene Beasley

THE UNITED STATES has one unique holiday of its own—Thanksgiving Day, a day set aside for families to get together, eat turkey and give thanks for the great blessings received under our country's free enterprise system.

A New York U.S. District Court judge dismissed the complaint of poultry packers who stuff and freeze turkeys in Minnesota and Wisconsin and send them to all parts of the country under U.S. Department of Agriculture rules but do not recognize the New York state law requiring poultry packers to label turkeys as to net weight before stuffing and total weight after they are stuffed and frozen.

Referring to the Poultry Inspection Act under which poultry is shipped in interstate commerce, the court said:

"The general scheme of the act does not suggest an intent to oust the states of their historic undertaking to safeguard their people from improper statements of weights."

GOVERNMENT regulation is not a new experience for American business. In fact, protection of the public against false weights and measures or misleading statements about them is one of the oldest exercises of government regulatory power.

Today the government plays a growing part in every American's life.

The Federal Government agencies have only begun to grow. National and state governments are wooing the consumer in well-publicized battles for consumer protection. The daily trend is for tighter and more rigid restrictions on business.

THE NATIONAL Association of Attorneys General at its 56th annual conference urged the establishment of state consumer fraud bureaus within the offices of the attorneys general and the adoption of legislation providing law enforcement with injunctive and other powers in consumer fraud cases.

Fifteen states have already set up consumer protection bureaus or facilities operating under attorneys general.

The question is, will these bureaus gradually become political tools? Will headlines be selected for investigation to make good Consumer Fraud Bureau publicity?

Will the consumer actually be benefited by all this governmental legislation? "Paul Hess' remarks in "Scop" should be given some hard thinking. "Any government," he said, "with the power to give you anything you want is strong enough to take everything you have."

AN ESTIMATED 1,500 California and Arizona growers, packers and shippers listened to U.S. Senator George Murphy's advice to become political activists if they wanted to survive financially.

He further deplored what he called a growing trend to put big governmental programs in the arbitrary hands of officials who are appointed, not elected.

He went on further to say farmers have already suffered heavily from government "mismanagement" of farm labor problems—and he warned they would suffer in other ways if they did not fight "encroachment by big government."

Even voluntary organizations are hearing it voiced that they have outlived their usefulness and are being gobbled up by governmental agencies.

There is not one business man sitting on President Johnson's 12-man Consumer Advisory Council. A member of the Council recently stated that President Johnson's resistance to pressures to put a businessman on his 12-member Consumer Advisory Council was "a tribute to a real understanding of the proper role of a consumer representative agency."

The Better Business Bureau believes the Consumer's Union and other critical groups of our present free enterprise business system should be heard but not that they should have the exclusive voice on consumer affairs.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAUS have worked for 53 years to curb fraud on the fringe of legitimate business and to work at getting at the source of inaccurate and unethical advertising.

If unethical advertisements arouse a sufficient number of people, government action may bar competitive claims for any product. Today in Germany, no competitive claims are allowed in advertising no matter how valid they may be.

A survey conducted by Northwestern and Purdue Universities, the University of Wisconsin and U. S. News and World Report among American high-school juniors and college juniors revealed startling figures of the impressions of the youth of our nation on economics.

Fifty-six per cent voted for closer regulation of all business; 53 per cent believed in government ownership of banks, railroads and steel companies; 62 per cent said the government has the responsibility to provide jobs; 62 per cent thought a worker should not produce all he can, and 61 per cent rejected the profit incentive as necessary to the survival of free enterprise.

On Thanksgiving Day, both business and consumer should have made a solemn resolution not to throw away their priceless inheritance of freedom and free enterprise.

The Directors And Their Year

Don Miller

IF THERE WAS any doubt about Ed Morgan is a master of his organization, it was quickly removed when the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce's board of directors met for the first time under the leadership of its new president—Ed Morgan.

At the helm of the chamber with the same steady hand that he steered the administration of the Jefferson High School District for many years, he indicated at the outset that his brand of leadership would be one of thorough organization.

The directors received a packet of material that, save for the chamber's heading at the top, looked like that very thorough agenda and supporting material that trustees of the high school district receive for their board meetings.

And this is the way it should be, Morgan told the directors, for he thinks the chamber faces a momentous year and to be prepared for that year, the directors will have to be well briefed before they sit down for decision making at their monthly meetings.

That the directors liked the whole idea of more concrete action at meetings was evidenced in a suggestion that rather than engage in idle chat while luncheon was served, they should discuss the agenda and transact the chamber's business before the ice cream and coffee were served.

As one director, a chamber member is a business man, he said, his time is precious and his budget is tight.

What does exactly have found Morgan over lunch when a long discussion is in the works?

As Morgan said: Let's make this the year of the board of directors. The way they started out the other day, it could very well be just that.

REINT LINGEMAN, the gentleman from the County Health Department who is maintaining close tabs on the invasion of roof rats into a part of the Westlake area, had an interesting observation at the last Daly City Council meeting.

The invasion, he inferred, might not be of the proportions some people think it is.

To wit: Every time a rat is sighted, it's reported. Well, said Lingeman, suppose the same rat scampers along several backyards fences and was seen by several housewives. Each would phone authorities and report seeing a rat. And so, reports of 20 persons seeing rats might be 20 persons seeing the same rat. Which wouldn't make the invasion as much of a frontal assault as first feared.

Lingeman, by the way, is not only a gentleman of the health department, he's also a victim of the Pass-the-Buck Department.

When someone suggested that state authorities should be notified of the rat invasion, he lamented:

"If something is referred to the State Health Department, they refer it back to my lap. This happens all the time. And it isn't funny."

LEGAL LOOPHOLE DEPARTMENT: At the same council meeting at which Lingeman appeared, the council approved an intriguing bit of business that might be compared to executing a run around the zoning law end.

Some time ago, the Ladies' Home Club filed an application, seeking a change in zoning of a single-residential lot at 23 Werner Avenue, across the street from land now zoned multiple-dwelling.

The club's 50-year incorporation papers will expire next year—and before that happens, the club wants to sell the lot. If the lot were zoned multiple-dwelling, it would bring a higher price than the single-family lot.

In filing its application for a rezoning, the club didn't present any proposed plans for the lot—thus failing to fulfill the requirements of the zoning ordinance. (The failure was pointed out by a neighbor in an appearance before the Planning Commission.)

City Attorney Paul Hupf subsequently ruled that the club would have to file a site or elevation plan (a proposal for use of the lot) before the rezoning could be acted upon.

This the club did—filing a plan for a fourplex. Although the club satisfied the provisions of the zoning law, it apparently has no intention of going ahead with an apartment building. Its charter will expire too soon.

As City Engineer Art Reschke explained later, city officials can only assume that the intent of an applicant is sincere.

HALF THE BATTLE — Looks like only half the battle with that atrocious traffic snarl that daily clogs the intersection of Alemany Boulevard, South Mayfair Avenue and Park Plaza Drive will be won in time for the Christmas rush.

A new entrance to the Westlake Shopping Center for eastbound Alemany traffic has opened adjacent to the center's huge billboard, thus relieving some of the crush at the intersection.

However, a new set of signals that will regulate a revised traffic flow at the corner probably won't be in operation until after the first of the year. Shipment of some vital parts for the signal installation has bogged down.

All of which is bad news for Christmas shoppers and homebound commuters. For if the post-Thanksgiving mob of shoppers that strangled the intersection at various times of the day last Friday is any indication, John Q. Motorist is in for a trying time during the season of otherwise good cheer.

The 'Games' That We Are Playing

Samuel Chandler

SOMETIMES I wonder why people read books like the current best seller, "The Games People Play," by Dr. Eric Berne. They make one self-conscious and fill him with introversion. Truly they make him uncomfortable.

Indeed, it is surprising to see this book become a best seller. It is not easy to read or to understand once you have read it. Yet there it is—over a year after its publication—a best seller.

Dr. Berne subtitled the book, "The Psychology of Human Relationships." In the introduction, which is the most important part of the book, he says that from birth people develop a hunger for "stroking" that is recognition.

In the baby, this is literally a stroke, in a hug, or a pat, even a playful pinch or flip with a fingertip. This gives the baby a sense of well being and makes him hungry for more. Sometimes this is the only reason he cries.

AS THE BABY develops and meets the world, his hunger increases and drives him in a life-long, perpetual search for "stroking." This hunger lies behind his ambitions, his work and study habits, his manners and even his love life.

Sometimes the hunger is satisfied by the merest nod or word of recognition. Other times, however, the craving for stroking—acclaim—is so great that games must be developed which will lead to attainment.

Sometimes the games people play are so evident, but sometimes they are so subtle and usually programmed with great care.

Dr. Berne offers the reader a series of games that people play to insure recognition or for some even more subtle reason such as to avoid confronting reality or to conceal personality complexes, imagined or otherwise.

The games are grouped into seven major categories. Their discussions provide the fun that the book offers. So there are Life Games that include: "See what you made me do" and "Now I got you, you S. of B." and "O.K., Kick Me."

Then come marital games such as "Corner" and "If it weren't for you," and "Look how hard I've tried." Party games include "Aint it awful" and "Why don't you."

The other main categories are Sexual Games, Underworld Games, Consulting Room Games, and Good Games. Part III is a discussion of the significance of the games and of the players.

THE GAMES are passed on from generation to generation. Raising children is primarily a matter of teaching them what games to play. Games are peculiar to the cultures and social classes to which people belong.

The games are sandwiched in between costumes and other times. They show up when one is bored and in stringent circumstances. People pick up friends and associates other people who play the same games.

Those people who play the games most intensely are the most disturbed people. Curiously enough, however, some schizophrenics seem to refuse to play the games and demand action from the beginning.

But most of us have a bit of jerk and sulk and show off in us. So we play our games from day to the next in a life-long desire to be stroked as the baby is petted and hugged.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

The members of the North Peninsula Circle, Florence Crittenton Home, wish to thank your paper and Mrs. Louanne Heath, in particular, for the marvelous publicity you gave our annual luncheon-fashion show.

We feel that a great deal of the success of our fund-raising affair was due to this publicity.

We also want to take this opportunity to thank you for the publicity given our organization and its objectives throughout the year.

We also want to thank all those businesses and organizations that supported our luncheon-fashion show and contributed prizes for the event.

Mrs. Peter Markovich, Publicity Chairman, North Peninsula Circle, Florence Crittenton Home.

TO THE EDITOR: It was nice to read the Post once again. Our upstairs apartment was missed last week and there were only two papers downstairs for the neighbors that live downstairs.

We enjoy reading The Post and seeing all the fine values we can get at the Westlake Shopping Center, too.

Thank you again for your fine paper.

Mrs. A. Miley, 139 Crestwood Drive, Daly City.

Doctor in The Kitchen

by W. W. Bauer, M.D.
Consultant
National Dairy Council

WHAT FOODS ARE FATTENING?

If someone were to ask the doctor in the kitchen what foods are fattening, he would have to give her a very peculiar answer. At least, it might seem peculiar, at first glance.

He would tell the lady that all foods are fattening, and no foods are fattening, and she would probably think that he was trying to be funny. And this business of fattening is anything but funny!

It is common in everyday conversation to hear:

"I never touch butter—it's fattening."

"I just love chocolate, but it's so fattening!"

"Sugar in your coffee? My dear, how do you dare—its SO fattening."

"I eat rice instead of potato, not nearly so fattening, you know."

"Do you realize that one martini is as fattening as a boiled egg?"

Well, doctor in the kitchen, answer those, with your double talk about all foods and no foods fattening—I never heard of such a thing!

I'll admit it is a little puzzling. And yet it is true. All foods are fattening, if you eat enough of them. And none are, if you limit your intake. It's just as simple as that.

What it comes down to is that the diet as a whole is what is fattening, or slimming, or maintaining, according to the amount of food taken in the total diet and the amount of energy you expend.

Neither extreme is to be recommended. Each good food has its contribution to make. It is folly to omit basic foods like meat, eggs, fish, cheese, butter, milk, cream, poultry, whole grains or enriched cereals, vegetables and fruits from your diet, or cut them too low for good nutrition.

The idea is to find a combination that will maintain your weight, and still keep all the four food groups that were described here last week in proper balance. Then, neither your foods nor your diet will be fattening, and you can enjoy good eating, plus the benefits of a nice figure, clothes that fit in sizes easy to buy, feet that carry your normal weight without complaining, and a general feeling of being right with your nutrition and your health, and the world in general.

Frankfurters In Biscuits

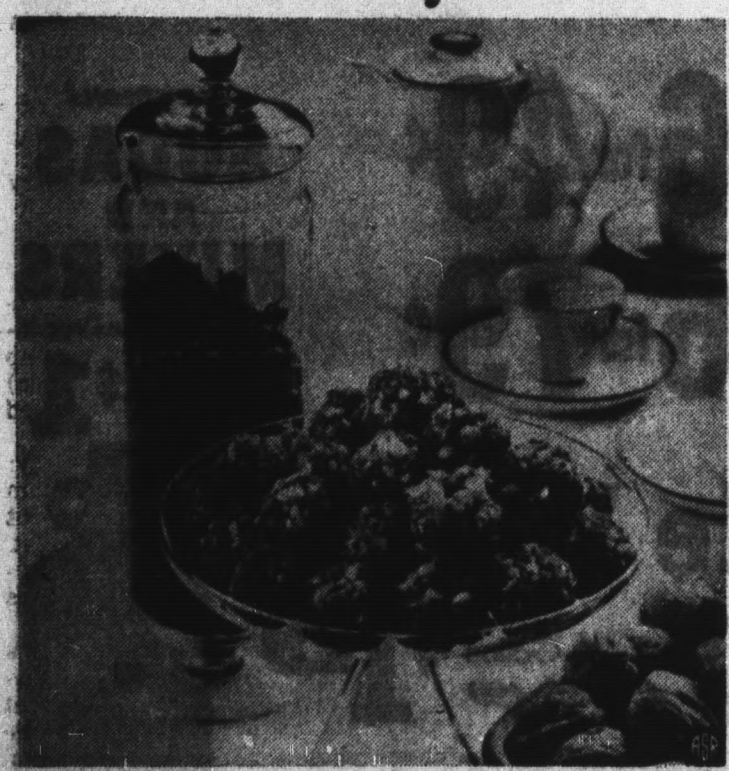

Serving a green salad for lunch or supper? An excellent accompaniment would be frankfurter biscuits. Simply add two frankfurters, sliced very thin, and ¼ cup of grated American cheese to the dry ingredients (two cups sifted flour with one tablespoon baking powder and one teaspoon salt mixed with ¼ cup lard) before ¼ cup milk is mixed in. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 to 12 minutes.

Quick Tips
x-Bologna Cups Filled with Pork and Beans: For each serving, press two thin slices ham bologna in a greased muffin cup; fill with pork and beans in tomato sauce. Bake about 20 minutes in hot oven.

x-Doughnut Sundae: Put a ball of ice cream in a dessert dish, top with fruit sauce and a split cinnamon-sugared doughnut arranged tent-fashion over all.

x-Port Shortcake: Dice two cups leftover pork; combine with canned mushroom gravy, two tablespoons chopped pimiento, and a dash of Worcestershire. Heat and spoon over split biscuits. Makes four servings.

Try Whirligigs For Holiday Whirl

Out of this world are Chocolate Walnut Whirligigs. Little satellites of sheer satisfaction, they're an easy mixture of melted semi-sweet chocolate morsels, sour cream and other simple ingredients, shaped into balls, and then rolled twice in a tantalizing coating of California walnuts and wafer crumbs. The result is a confection suspicious in texture, and ultra-elegant in flavor. Dark, rich, a novel for those who like sweets that have character, you'll find these elegancies extremely simple to make ahead, and keep chilled as holiday fare for choosy people.

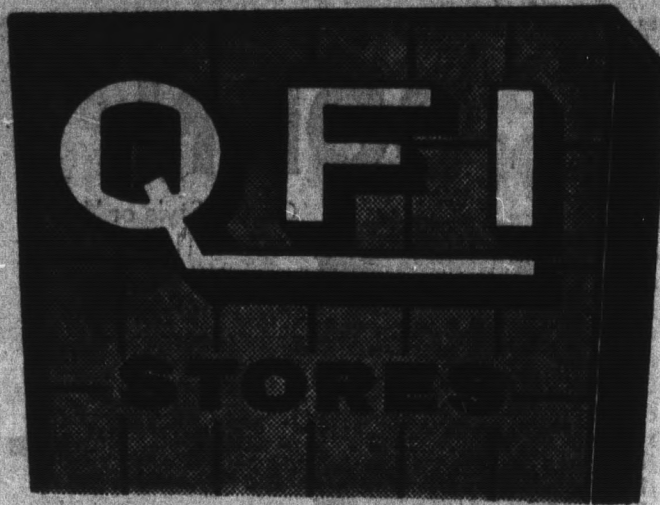

Choco-Walnut Whirligigs

1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
¼ cup commercial sour cream
1 ¼ cups chopped California walnuts, divided
½ teaspoon salt, divided

¼ cup finely crushed vanilla wafers
¼ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon softened butter
1 tablespoon quick chocolate-flavored mix
1 teaspoon rum flavoring
1 teaspoon water

Melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from water; stir in sour cream, ¼ cup of the walnuts and ½ teaspoon of the salt. Chill until firm. Combine remaining 1 cup chopped walnuts, ¼ teaspoon salt and remaining ingredients. Mix until crumbly. Form chilled semi-sweet mixture into 1-inch balls. Roll balls in crumb mixture twice. Chill.

YIELD: 2 dozen candies.
NOTE: Candies may be stored in refrigerator.

LET'S KNIT

With Illustrated Patterns
By Ursula duBois

Mohair Mink Coat

A mohair coat that resembles mink—well, almost anyway—is modeled by Carol Merrill of NBC Television.

This garment is knitted in one piece which eliminated side seams. A knit 1 row, purl 1 row technique is all the know-how needed to fashion this lovely coat. Pattern uses approximately 28 balls of mohair which are used double. If you wish to cut cost of yarn, use 1 stand of mohair and 1 strand of worsted.

And for people who feel not quite so proficient as others when it comes to finishing, we have a full size lining pattern available, cost of which is $1.

Illustrated instructions come in sizes 10 through 18. All sizes are included on one pattern.

If you wish to obtain pattern No. 33, send 50 cents in coin, check, or money order to: Ursula duBois, San Mateo Times-Post Pattern Dept., Box 3307, Van Nuys, Calif. 91407.

Send 15 cents extra for first class mail and special handling. Other patterns you may enjoy: No. 40—Mohair evening sweater, 50 cents, sizes 8-18.

JUNSD ACTION

Course Okayed For Suspended Pupils

By LOUANN HEATH

The establishment of a continuation school in the Jefferson Union High School District will be left to the discretion of the administrators at the district's four schools as a result of a stop-gap action taken by the district board of trustees last week.

A lengthy debate on the course of action to be taken in light of a newly instituted penalty for districts that don't comply with the letter of state legislation on adjustment schools resulted in the plans.

It will allow each school to decide the need for such a program.

A school must offer a continuation program to students who have been suspended for 10 days or more.

The district has in the past referred suspended students to the adult school evening program even though the law in a technical sense had insisted that the continuation program be held in the day.

In essence, the board adopted a proposal presented by Asst. Supt. Fred Goodell and formulated by the principals and assistant principals.

Basically the plan calls for the establishment of at least one class of continuation school in each school desiring to take part in the program.

Classes will begin November 29 and will be held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Principals will select the teaching staff to instruct students and transfer to classes in accordance with the state education code.

The curriculum for pupils will be a continuation, insofar as is possible, of the classwork in regular classes. Credits earned will apply for the high school diploma.

Goodell emphasized that current plans for the classes are concise and short, avoiding details that might make it impossible to launch the program immediately.

Heavy emphasis was placed on the fact that the program is only to last until a permanent continuation or adjustment curriculum or faculty can be obtained.

Board President Elio Fontana and Supt. Edward Morgan stressed that the district must be careful to avoid a poor program at this point that might prejudice chances for a full time continuation program next year.

Fortunate Perez, secretary of the Morales Club of South San Francisco, has been selected as the representative of the Spanish-speaking poverty area of South San Francisco according to Antonio Montoya who made the report before the County Human Resources Commission last week.

Montoya said he will try to work out some type of community election to satisfy federal requirements.

CSM Official Is Named to State Position

Eleanor D. Nettle, president of the board of trustees of San Mateo Junior College District, has been reappointed to the statutory California Co-ordinating Council for Higher Education for a four-year term, it was announced.

The San Mateo resident, wife of Lester Nettle, a Matson Company executive, has served on the council since its inception.

She acts as representative for junior college trustees on the 18-member body, which is charged with implementation of California's master plan for higher education and co-ordination of the work of the state university, state colleges, public junior colleges and private collegiate institutions in the state.

Mrs. Nettle's reappointment was made by the State Board of Education. Her original term expires this month.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

What is malocclusion?

Malocclusion is irregularity of tooth position and poor fitting together of the teeth on closing the jaws. Such irregularity not only may interfere with chewing and with speech but also may lead to disease of the gums and other supporting structures of the teeth (periodontal disease). Malocclusion may also produce deformities of the face. Ask your Dentist about malocclusion and its treatment if needed.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit the practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for same however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to keep proper the use of your natural teeth as even the beautiful modern dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

San Bruno Mayor Proclaims CAP Week

San Bruno Mayor Neil Chittil has proclaimed this to be the twenty-fifth anniversary of Civil Air Patrol. The Mayor attended a meeting of San Bruno Cadet Squadron No. 90, CAP.

Warrant Officers Robert and Frances Hewitt, communications and finance officers, of San Bruno, together with the Cadets conducted him through their headquarters at the Tanforan Navy Base, in San Bruno.

The squadron has weekly Monday night meetings, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., to acquaint the cadet with the various phases of military orientation, drilling, radio, and aerospace subjects. The squadron now has a radio net of five land and two mobile stations, and assists in air searches when called upon by the Air Force.

Cadets are allowed to participate in ground search and rescue personnel who assist in their organization, together with a chaplain, and an A and E, as they have an L-16, which the cadets hope to recover with fabric, and later on will be given orientation flights. A two-week summer encampment at an Air Force base is available to cadets who are interested.

$1,100 Gone From Mateo Park Meters

Theft of some $1,100 from San Mateo parking meters during the first three weeks of November is being investigated by police.

Policeman Ed Swetlik said that a drop in revenue was first noticed the November 5 week end by Leonard Thorsen, meter collector, and that there have been similar drops during subsequent weekends.

Thorsen informed the officer that examination of the meters indicates that they are being opened with a key, the money removed and the meter relocked. There are no force marks to indicate the meters have been forced open, Swetlik reported.

The officer said that meters are emptied by the collector once a week with the average from each meter of $1.40. In one area, he noted, the normal $130 collection had dwindled to $26.

Thorsen reported that the thefts are not confined to any specific area, but are spread throughout the downtown section.

A similar series of thefts from parking meters is being investigated by Redwood City police. Meter collectors there reported a sharp drop in revenue, and indications that a key was being used to open meters and remove the money. Officers there reported 10 days ago that some $400 had been taken from downtown meters.

Redwood City has partially solved its problem for the present by removing all of the meters along Broadway, the city's main street, for the duration of the Christmas shopping season.

Investigation Of School Tax Asked

The South San Mateo Home-owners' Association today demanded an investigation of the San Mateo City Elementary School District tax rate which it charges is up 27 per cent over its 6.2 per cent budget increase. It terms this a "tremendous overtax."

In a letter to the school district trustees signed by Jack Solow, president of the home-owners' association, it is stated:

"We call to your attention a serious overtaxing in the county tax bills for 1965-66. This requires investigation and action."

"The rate sheet attached to the tax bills for 1964-65 shows the San Mateo elementary school rate to be 3.026. The sheet for 1965-66 shows a 2.736 on the same line."

"Recently the County Assessor released figures indicating that the total assessment value for the San Mateo school district is increased by 41.5 per cent as against last year. Therefore, to equal last year's tax collection amount, the rate would be reduced by 29 per cent, making it $2.15."

"At the October 19 San Mateo elementary school board meeting, we were informed that their budget is 8.2 per cent over last year's. It was also stated that the county sets the rate based on the budget figure, although the circular letter with the tax bill states that each agency determines its own tax rate."

"An 8.2 per cent budget increase changes a rate of $2.15 to $2.33. A rate of $2.33 for 1965-66 collects taxes for an additional 27 per cent, which represents a tremendous overtax. We consider this to be a most serious matter. What possible explanation is there?"

Chases Ball On Street, Killed by Car

Mark Torres, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Torres, 787 Thornhill Drive, Brownmoor Village, was killed yesterday when he chased a ball into the street in front of his home and was run over by a car.

The driver, Mrs. Ethel June Stoddard, 40, of 411 Linden Avenue, San Bruno, told Highway Patrolman Fred Girdler she slammed on the brakes when she saw the boy but could not stop in time. She was not cited.

Another boy, Scott Caldwell, 12, of 807 Thornhill, told the officer that he was playing with Mark when the ball rolled into the street. He shouted a warning, Scott said, but the little boy only hesitated slightly before darting into the street from behind a parked car.

Mark was dead on arrival at Kaiser Hospital.

Cars Stolen From Lot

Someone has three new cars this morning. Or, three people have new cars which cost them no down payment.

At least, Dick Bullis Chevrolet in Burlingame is missing three brand new, unlicensed, undriven 1966 models.

Presumably, they're stolen. Bullis' agents told police the three cars were on a locked and fenced lot at Anita Road and Peninsula Avenue late yesterday, and gone early today.

Officers said the wire gate's padlock had not been tampered with, so the triple thief had a key, apparently.

All three cars are the "Super-Sport" compact model, two-door hardtops.

Car Crashes Embankment

Orville W. Clark, 55-year-old airplane mechanic of 72 Escanero Drive, South San Francisco, was hurt at 2 a.m. Sunday when his car crashed into a Skyline Boulevard embankment.

Highway patrolmen said the auto went out of control on a curve just north of Bunker Hill Drive, west of San Mateo.

Clark, who was thrown out, was taken to Peninsula Hospital. Treated for a concussion, he was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Christmas Concert Scheduled

Peninsulans will soon have an opportunity to enjoy respite from the "sometimes hectic" hurry of the pre-holiday rush.

"Now is the Time of Christmas" is the theme of the concert to be presented on Thursday, December 16 at 8 p.m. at Capuchino High School Auditorium, San Bruno.

The program, conducted by Harry Spencer, combines the talents of students of music with the arts and drama departments under the guidance of members of the faculty. The FACET Club sponsors this program as a means to raise $750 needed to bring a foreign student in the American Field Service Program here for a year of study at Capuchino.

Following a brass choir fanfare prelude, the 40-piece concert orchestra will accompany a choral prelude by Bach and traditional songs of Christmas arranged by Morton Gould.

Fifty young musicians of the Concert Choir will raise their voices in a Bach Cantata accompanied by Mike Herrero on the organ. One of the many highlights is a Fred Waring presentation by Roy Ringwald with orchestral accompaniment and narration by Ken Ton of the drama department. An added attraction is a Spanish number taught by Marina Solano of Argentina who will also participate. Marina is this year's foreign exchange student hosted by Linda Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell of San Bruno, and whose FACET Club faculty advisor is Mrs. Billie Hallberg of the English department.

The Chamber Choir, consisting of 16 members, will sing two selections. Both are illustrated by modern dance artistically performed by advanced students of Miss Nedra Merrick of Capuchino's physical education department.

Among selections offered by the 25 voice girls' ensemble will be two songs for Hanukkah, the Jewish Festival of Lights in December.

The program concludes with a costumed novelty number. The evening promises musical entertainment for all ages.

Tickets are $1 for adults; 50 cents for students, and are available from all music department students and at the Capuchino box office at the performance.

Man Knifed On Street

Otis R. Moroland, 21, of 2183 1/2 Cypress Street, East Palo Alto, was in Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital today recuperating from a knife wound sustained in a fight early Sunday. Hospital attendants said his condition today was fair.

Moroland told sheriff's deputies he was walking on Cooley Avenue at 5:30 a.m. when he was accosted by five youths, who knifed him in the back, struck him in the face and took his wallet.

He said he could not identify any of the assailants.

R. C. Saw Theft Told

Somebody got away with a water table-type bricksaw, of all things, in a theft from a parked truck at a Redwood City service station between November 22 and 27, police learned yesterday.

Also gone are a wheelbarrow and 100 feet of heavy duty hose, police were told. Total value was $211. Victim was Masonry of Capuchino.

Grants to charities—principally in the five Bay Area counties—totalled $639,793 in the fiscal year ended last June 30, according to the San Francisco Foundation's annual report, published yesterday.

Family Fight Ends in Jail, Hospital

A San Mateo man was jailed Saturday night after he allegedly knifed his brother, then commenced to beat the victim over the head with a pellet gun.

Booked at city jail on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, on, assault, battery, and displaying a deadly weapon in a threatening manner was Raymond "Charlie" Nevarez, 23, an electrical worker, of 43 North Fremont Street.

Held overnight at County General Hospital for treatment of multiple cuts of the face and head was his brother, Benito Nevarez, 33, of 115 Baldwin Avenue.

Witnesses told Officer Robert Clark that the two brothers had been drinking early in the evening and that they got into a running disagreement.

The brothers and a friend, Juan White, 138 Sequoia Avenue, Redwood City, were driving in the 300 block of North Humboldt Street when the younger brother suddenly stopped the car and both he and Benito stepped out, White told police.

Raymond took out a fishing knife and threw it on the ground, telling his brother, "If you want to kill me try and do it," the witness related to Clark. White said Benito went after Raymond, cutting the latter on the chin, and that Raymond grabbed the knife, cutting his brother on the forehead and chin. Benito staggered off to the porch of the home of Audrey Ramirez, 331 North Humboldt. Mrs. Ramirez said the injured man asked her to call an ambulance.

About that time, Mrs. Ramirez related to police, Raymond arrived at the house, grabbed Benito, dragged him outside and began to beat him over the head with a pellet gun.

At this point, police arrived. Clark said as he pulled up Raymond was still pounding Benito with the gun.

Throat Hurt In Home Fall

A 78-year-old Hillsborough woman was reported in good condition today at County General Hospital after undergoing a tracheotomy for a throat injury suffered Saturday when she fell against a railing while running to answer the telephone.

San Mateo Policeman John Pawson said officers were sent to the address at 111 Baywood Avenue after the victim, Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, managed to gasp over the telephone to an operator that she needed help.

When he and other officers arrived at the home, Pawson reported, they found Mrs. Johnson having extreme difficulty breathing. She was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital where it was determined she had a larynx injury and that a tracheotomy would be required.

Mrs. Johnson related that she was hurt about 5 p.m. when she ran to answer the telephone and fell, striking her throat against a railing. Pawson's report indicated that the victim, who was at home alone, apparently was unable to summon help for some time. It was shortly before 10 p.m. when officers were sent to the home.

MATEAN HONORED

Ira Massey, 1201 Newbridge Street, San Mateo, has received an outstanding performance award with a sustained superior performance award in recognition of his work record at Oakland Army Base. Massey is a civilian employee of the Cargo Division of Military Ocean Terminal, Bay Area.

ing to the San Francisco Foundation's annual report, published yesterday.

Size of the gifts to charities listed in the report ranged from $100 to $100,000, and covered the whole spectrum of educational and charitable purposes, from aid to children and the aged, to support of the performing arts. Major support was given by the foundation to efforts toward solution of the problems of alcoholism, a disease in which San Francisco has an unenviable position of leadership among America's largest cities. Race relations claimed another large share of the foundation's disbursements, with grants going to the Urban League, the Council for Civic Unity, and other organizations working for equal opportunities throughout the Bay Area, as far away as East Palo Alto.

Hospitals Aided
A major undertaking, financed to the tune of $100,000, is an effort by the American Cancer Society to provide more services for cancer patients. The need for intelligent planning in hospitals is stressed.

10-Mile Hike -No Supper

Seven-year-old Steven Lynch willingly went to bed without any dinner Saturday night, his mother told San Mateo police.

Steven went shopping Saturday afternoon at Hillsdale Shopping Center with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne H. Lynch, 114 Sherwood Drive, South San Francisco.

The parents reported to Officer Robert Bennett at 2:30 p.m. that Steven became lost at The Emporium. A general search of the store and subsequently of the shopping center failed to turn up the boy.

Mrs. Lynch returned home in the event that someone returned the child there.

The hours passed, and still no sign of Steven. Then, at 7:05 p.m., Mrs. Lynch called San Mateo police to report that Steven had just arrived home, walking all the way, some 10 miles.

Steven told his mother that when he realized he was lost and couldn't find the car the only thing left to do was to walk home. Mrs. Lynch told Benito.

She stated that Steven was bathed, and went to bed without any dinner—at his request, as "no doubt he was tired."

tal construction throughout the Bay Area was recognized by the foundation in grants totaling $37,500 to the Bay Area Health Facilities Planning Association.

In the arts, the foundation continued its support of the distinguished performing group in the music department at Mills College. A grant of $22,000 helped the Art Institute establish its new printmaking center. Smaller grants went to other artistic and cultural endeavors. Several grants were made in the area of conservation. The Audubon Canyon Ranch received $10,000; Station KQED presented a series on conservation of the San Francisco area.

Pacifica Library Branch Is Now Lending Records

Records as well as books, can now be checked out at the Pacifica branch of the San Mateo County Library.

A record collection has been made possible by an initial contribution of $500 from the American Association of University Women. A thousand dollars in additional funds came from the county library budget.

Mrs. Jannette Thompson, Pacifica librarian, selected the records, which are housed adjacent to the lounge in the main room of the new library building in Sharp Park.

They will be maintained by the county library, which has set up a cross-indexed catalog of all the records.

Mrs. Thompson describes the records as the beginning of a good basic record library.

They represent most of the standard classical composers, a repertoire of concertos, quartets, symphonies, and various musical forms by leading performers and orchestras.

Some 200 records are still to be added, said Mrs. Thompson. They will represent musical forms and composers up to the present day.

Folk music, jazz, instrumental music and popular music may be added at a later date, Mrs. Thompson said.

Coastside residents holding a San Mateo County library card are eligible to check out the records, two at a time. They must be borrowed and returned personally, however, from the Sharp Park Library, Mrs. Thompson stated.

San Carlos and Millbrae are the only other San Mateo County libraries that also have record collections.

Terra Nova High School's varsity football team experienced their finest season since 1962 this year by going 4-1.

Land Dumps Vital, Says County Aide

A report supporting the county's program of establishing garbage and waste disposal dumps in the mountains has been submitted to County Engineer Don S. Armogida by S. A. Armogida, director of county waste disposal services.

The report, filed in Los Angeles County, where several large dumps are in use and where other methods of disposal have been tried, have shown that landfill dumps are needed no matter what other disposal methods are used, Armogida said.

Under the incineration method in Los Angeles, Armogida reported, for every 100 tons of raw refuse, 36 tons were directly to fill-and-cover sites because it could not be incinerated.

Of the 64 tons burned, 48 tons were discharged into the atmosphere and the 16 tons of residue was hauled to landfill dumps.

Coast Looks For New Aide

"No date has been set for the selection of my new assistant," Pacifica City Manager Karl Baldwin said last week when questioned about a replacement for Mel Davis, who has resigned.

Davis, who takes over today as city manager of Sebastopol, served in Pacifica for seven years.

Baldwin said that selection of a new assistant city manager will not be a "formalized process."

The League of California Cities examines and maintains records of men who are in city administrative work or have completed courses, Baldwin explained. And he added:

"This information is available to us and we are now in the process of checking it."
